Man is Drowned in Lake Mendota

Stoughton Day Draws County Fair Crowds

Today

Grand Maneuvers.
1,000th Birthday.
Judge Gary Distributes.
Potatoes 75c a Barrel.

By Arthur Brisbane

THE French army is about to indulge in "grand maneuvers." That is intended to impress Germany, refusing to pay what she hasn't got, and to impress England, who won't make Germany pay what she hasn't got. It is a good deal like the old nursery rhyme" Stick won't beat dog, dog won't bite pig, pig won't get over the stile," etc.

Germany says she won't pledge her mines in the Ruhr region, and she won't transfer all the gold she has to the care of the allies.

France, absolutely dominating Europe in a military way, can take the mines and the gold, too, if she chooses. The German mark drops a little lower, the French franc also. So much for that.

When Philadelphia prepared to celebrate the [illegible] anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, the old town of Goslar, at the foot of the Hartz Mountains, celebrates its 1,000th birthday. In that old town of interesting history and adventure you may inspect manuscripts written by Martin Luther, statues of eight German emperors, the Kaiserhaus, oldest building except churches in Germany. To learn how solidly they built you visit the "Zwinger" tower, with its stone walls, almost twenty-five feet thick.

For a thousand years the old town has stood, sometimes half ruined, once a free city in the Hanseatic League, once taken by the Swedes, and since the beginning of the last century owned by Prussia.

What will have happened in Germany and elsewhere in Europe, and over here, when Goslar celebrates its 2,000th birthday? That day will come around quickly, as the first thousandth anniversary has come.

And what will have happened one million years hence, when this race begins real life with 99,000,000 years to go, according to scientists? There's really no hurry.

Judge Gary of the big steel company raises the wages of 150,000 laborers 20 per cent. That is a considerable army. To increase the pay of such a crowd is, to better times and general prosperity, what irrigation is to a farm.

Every dollar thus distributed will be spent as the men get it, and business promoted. That wouldn't happen if the money stayed locked up in one big pocketbook.

Would you like to be a truck farmer? At Farmingdale, New Jersey, last Saturday, potatoes sold at 75 cents for a barrel of 165 pounds. "Seconds," smaller sized potatoes, could not be sold at all.

The grower got less than half a cent a pound for the potatoes. A hundred miles from Farmingdale, on the same day, potatoes sold to consumers for [illegible] a barrel. The problem of the United States is distribution, cutting down the profiteering wall that separates producer from consumer. That problem doesn't seem to interest the government.

Three years ago Samuel Greenberg was selling whisky made of wood alcohol. Michael Kulik on the way to a wedding stopped in and had two drinks. A few hours later he was stone blind. The jury has given a verdict of [illegible] against Greenberg. Greenberg went [illegible]. Two days ago [illegible] of [illegible].

There ought to be a law and a [illegible] to put Mr. Greenberg to work [illegible] at hard labor, earning money to support the man [illegible] he [illegible].

To meet the lack of coal, Henry [illegible] puts [illegible] furnace in [illegible] without making one of his 12,000 workers [illegible] work. [illegible] ENERGY, INTELLIGENCE. [illegible] three [illegible] in industry.

[illegible] dog [illegible] on the wrist. A marmoset [illegible] a bulldog, [illegible].

[illegible] of the health department [illegible] Massachusetts, [illegible] given [illegible] enough [illegible] thing, [illegible] a high price [illegible]. The question is, [illegible] whisky? That re[illegible].

[illegible] government appro[illegible] to establish a serv[illegible]. The girls will be [illegible] weeks for $100, [illegible] instruction per week. [illegible] cooking, washing, [illegible] care of infants, [illegible] in the college will [illegible] piano playing, [illegible] for the servant to entertain [illegible] with music, not to [illegible].

The college idea is excellent. A first [illegible] will some day be recognized for what she is—an artist, a scientist and a benefactor.

But to ask her to play and sing for the lady of the house, after she has cooked, is a little too much.

Threatening weather did not dampen the ardor of thousands of fair fans today, and the Dane county fair association officials announce one of the biggest crowds in the history of its existence in attendance.

Today and tomorrow are the two biggest days at the fair grounds. The mammoth midway is proving a big attraction to the fans.

Today was Stoughton day at the fair and hundreds came from Stoughton and nearby districts.

Judging of exhibits will begin today and continue throughout the remaining four days.

The opening day, yesterday, proved beyond a doubt that this is the biggest fair year that Dane county has ever had. With some of the best horses in the country entered in the races this year, thousands of people thronged the grand stands and others, looking for room to sit or stand, stood about the track itself.

TODAY'S RACES
2:05 pace (closed)	$1,000
2:14 trot (closed)	1,000
2:10 pace	500
THURSDAY
2:12 pace (closed)	$1,000
2:20 trot (closed)	1,000
2:20 pace	500
3-year-old trot	500

This year is the biggest exhibit year in the history of the county, it is affirmed by those who have been watching the fairs in this county for the past years. There are double the number of agricultural exhibits. Over 1,500 cattle, some 500 horses and hundreds of sheep, swine and other live stock from the prosperous farms of the county have been entered in the fair exhibits. Prize competition will be exceedingly keen this year with so many entries.

The horses that have been brought here this year for the county fair are of the best that could be procured. Many of them are record breakers and most of them will go from here directly to the big state fair races. Those who think that Dane county cannot draw a first class set of racing horses should visit the track some day this week and be convinced of the caliber of the Dane county fair's power to draw fast horses.

The feature acts of the fair during afternoon and evening are the best offered here for many years. The Kinfield Kilties, a Scotch act with a troop of pretty [illegible], singing and dancing to the tune of the Scottish bagpipe, drew unusual applause from the stands. The tumbling [illegible] Arabs, oriental gymnasts; the Flotilla Four, colored singers; and other feature acts received appreciative applause from the crowds.

Fireworks that were scheduled for last evening were postponed until tonight. Hundreds of dollars worth of fancy fireworks have been purchased by the fair officials for this event.

Tomorrow is Madison day. Business houses of this city will be closed during the afternoon to allow the Madison people to attend the county fair. The races that are scheduled for tomorrow have aroused the enthusiasm of the Madison people, and the reports of the unusually interesting stock and agricultural exhibits will draw thousands of Madison grown ups.

Sept. 20 Deadline For Department Heads

Letters to the heads of all departments and boards of the city will be sent today asking that they submit the amounts which they estimate will be needed to carry on their work during 1923. The finance committee will meet almost nightly during the coming two months in preparing the budgets and fixing the tax rate. All departmental heads must have their reports in by Sept. 20, it was announced by City Auditor Bunn today.

WEATHER

The highest temperature during the past 24 hours was 82 at 2 p. m. yesterday, and the lowest was 69 degrees at 6 a. m. this morning. The sun sets at 6:48. The weather is fair in the southeastern states with light showers in the central states from Missouri to Ohio. The weather continues hot on the southern plains; yesterday the temperature in Wichita, Kansas, was 106 degrees. Thunder showers accompany an area of low barometer in western Canada.

Athletic Field Committee to Urge Need of Plan Before City Council

Initial Step Won After Many Urge Project At Meeting

The necessity for a municipal athletic field in Madison will be recommended to the common council Friday night by Mayor Kittleson's special committee investigation the advisability of such action, it was decided at a public meeting last night. A resolution will be introduced Friday night asking that the matter be re-referred to the committee for further investigation. About 40 Madison citizens spoke at the meeting last night, giving their views on the subject. The sentiment expressed was overwhelmingly for such a field.

No sites were discussed but it is understood that it is contemplated to have it as near the school as possible to facilitate its use by everyone.

Among those who spoke were Glenn Stevens, Alex Cobban, Larry Hall, J. W. Jackson, Stanley Hanke, Dr. Art Huegel, J. J. McNanamy, John Bourke, Howard Cassiboine, Ben Parker and Hy Smith. Each one was in favor of the project being launched and felt that every citizen would cooperate to the fullest extent in financing it.

Glenn Stevens touched on reasons which showed that the city should have a municipal athletic field.

"If the University of Wisconsin feels that it must take care of its students by furnishing them with adequate athletic facilities the city should do so also," Mr. Stevens stated. "It makes me sick to go to small towns like Lancaster and see what they do for their growing generation and then come back to Madison.

"A field will be a good drawing medium to athletics and besides this would be invaluable as an advertisement of the city. The present generation need not be burdened with paying for the field. Let it be spread over a number of years. The boy scout movement is a wonderful movement in that it builds up a race of square shooting upright citizens. Athletics do the same for our children. If Fennimore can spend $3,000 Madison can spend $200,000."

The concensus of opinion is that an athletic field should be procured for the best interests of the city, morally and physically, and at any cost. Athletics in the city have been less favored here than in other cities with less population. It was pointed out that the city in the past felt that dancing should be promoted as well as a city plan adopted for aiding the health of the community. It was stated that an athletic field would do more toward this end than either of the others measures.

Loved Twice And Lost

Bobby Kantor.

CHICAGO — Wearied of wealth without love, Bobby Kantor, beautiful, barely twenty-three and heiress to a large estate, vainly sought solace in death.

Bobby loved not wisely but two men—too well. That's why she's in a hospital here recovering from mercurial poisoning.

Two years ago she was the contented wife of Abraham Kantor, general salesmanager of a large concern here and well-to-do. Then Dr. Maurice Mazel came into her life.

It was a case of love at first sight with Bobby. Mazel was house physician at the Rogers Park hotel. Bobby believed her affections were reciprocated.

She divorced her husband so that she could be free to fulfill all her romantic dreams and marry Dr. Mazel. For a time the doctor lived up to her fondest expectations.

Her apartment, in the exclusive Sheridan road section, still bears evidence of the doctor's ardent wooing. Verses and flowers mingled. Brighter and brighter appeared the future of Bobby and the doctor.

Then a shadow darkened their sunny days. It was Dr. Mazel's mother. She did not approve of the match.

Then she decided to end the romance once and for all. With her son she came to Bobby's apartment. She informed the lovesick girl that the pair could never be married. And for some reason unknown to Bobby the doctor nodded acquiescence.

From her hospital cot Bobby, who doctors say will recover, told of the final meeting which almost led to her death.

"For months I had been looking forward to the wedding," she said. "Then they came to the house and told me roughly that it was all off. I was frantic.

"And then when he came again and told me that though he had promised his mother to leave me, he'd never forget me—that was the end.

"He held me in his arms. While I sobbed he said, 'Someday I may come back.'"

It was after this scene that Bobby decided to end her life. Though she may recover there is no indication that Dr. Mazel will marry her—even now.

Man Hurt As Stoughton Bus Goes In Ditch

Columbus Man Injured When Auto Jumps Road Near Here

One man was seirously cut and bruised by flying glass, and another was badly gashed when the Stoughton passenger bus, bound for this city, jumped the road about four miles from Madison last night and crashed into a ditch, breaking the glass windows and tearing off the door of the bus.

The driver, M. Lowry, Stoughton and a dozen passengers were coming toward Madison when he attempted to pass another car. The bus swerved in the loose gravel at the side of the road and started cross lots into a near-by fence. The occupants were thrown all over the car and all received bruises.

The driver escaped uninjured.

L. W. Oakley, a farmer living near Columbus, Wis., had 17 stitches taken in his head and shoulders as a result of the crash. He was cared for by Dr. Karl Smith and urged to go to the hospital, but refused.

A small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Deerson, Stoughton, was severely shocked as a result of accident, but was not in a serious condition.

Boy Is Shot As Suspect in Theft Attempt

Laurence Frank, 17, Shot By S. A. Gulessarian, Rug Dealer

Shot in the belief that he was a burglar attempting to steal Oriental rugs valued at several thousands of dollars from the cleaning plant of S. A. Gulessarian, 1915 Regent st. early this morning, Lawrence Frank, 17, is at St. Mary's hospital with a bullet through his leg, while Henry Gehrke caught by police after the shooting is being held by authorities.

Warrants for the pair were issued today by Dist. Atty. T. G. Lewis.

Awakened shortly before 4 a. m. by the sound of men prowling about the cleaning plant in the rear of his home, Gulessarian, seized his revolver and went to the front porch, when he saw figures flitting about in the darkness near his automobile, parked in the driveway next to the house.

A flashlight was flashed in his eyes, he said. Then he shot four times, hitting Frank. Officers Funnell and Bakken, rushed from police headquarters, arrested the two men and took Frank to the hospital.

When questioned by Police Chief Shaughnessy and Dist. Atty. Lewis this morning, Gehrke denied that he and Frank were planning to steal the rugs. Their automobile had run out of gasoline, he said, and they were attempting to obtain gasoline, according to Chief Shaughnessy.

Value of rugs entrusted to Gulessarian total as much as $50,000 at times, he said today. A watchman who is employed to guard the rugs was sleeping on the porch at the time the men were seen.

False statements regarding cures lead to cruel disappointments.

Drop Plea For Milk Rehearing

Attorneys For Milk Firm Will Not Appeal To Supreme Court

Request for rehearing on the decision of the Wisconsin supreme court upholding constitutionality of the law enacted by the 1921 legislature prohibiting manufacture and sale of filled-milk within this state, was withdrawn today by attorneys for the Carnation Milk Co., plaintiffs.

Assurance was given R. M. Hoyt deputy attorney general, by the company that it would not appeal the case to the U. S. supreme court. This means termination of all litigation over the Wisconsin law against milk compounds.

Mr. Hoyt, who has carried the case through the courts to a successful conclusion for the state, signed the stipulation withdrawing the motion for rehearing. J. Q. Emery, dairy and food commissioner, will now undertake enforcement of the statute, which will prohibit milk companies from manufacturing and grocers from selling the various compounds made from skimmed milk and vegetable oils.

The Carnation Milk Co. is reported to have agreed to stop manufacture of filled milk at once. It recently stopped sale of Hebe, its principal compound.

Collins Slain From Ambush; Irish Mourn

Ulster Stirred by Assassination of Free State Commander

(By The Associated Press)

BELFAST—All Ulster has been profoundly stirred by the news of Michael Collins' assasination. The Free State commander-in-chief was looked upon here as a more forceful personality than Arthur Griffith and many declare he had a greater hold on the people.

The tragedy occurred on the anniversary of the murder in 1920 at Lisburn of District Inspector Swanzy, which was followed by one of the fiercest riots in the history of Belfast and the burning of 300 houses at Lisburn.

The Irish News says the assassination will cause profound consternation among the Irish people to whom Collins had endeared himself by his sterling qualities of heart and mind and who looked upon him as their chief mainstay in the field as well as in the council chamber against the "evil conspiracy to which he has now fallen victim."

Shot from Ambush.

LONDON — The assassination of Michael Collins at Bandon, Cork, yesterday comes directly on the heels of the announcement by the Irish Irregulars of a policy of ambushes and raids in their fight against the Free State government. Lake Toll Rises To 12 Today

Ira J. White, Kewaunee, Ill., Dies During Visit Here

Ira John White, 39, Kewaunee, Ill., was drowned in Lake Mendota, near the Tenney park bath house this morning about 9:15, the twelfth victim of Madison's lakes this summer.

Mr. White, who was visiting with his wife, at the home of B. H. Seals, 401 N. Baldwin st. had gone fishing early this morning in a boat owned by Robert Oakey. When last seen by employes at the boathouse, he was standing up in the craft. One of the men on shore saw the man topple into the water.

He could not swim. A rescue party was sent out immediately and brought the body ashore. Having borrowed the Oakey boat, Mr. Oakey knew the identity of the man, and word was sent to the Seals home. Mr. Seals claimed the body.

Mr. White came, with his wife, to Lake Waubesa about a week ago, where they visited friends also from Kewaunee. They came to Madison last Saturday and were staying at the Seals home.

The lakes have always held a great attraction for the man, friends here said this morning, and he was an ardent fisherman. Mr. Oakey, who is a friend of Mr. Seals, loaned Mr. White his boat. It was taken through the locks this morning from Monona into Lake Mendota.

The water was about 10 feet deep where the drowning occurred. It was very clear and the man's white shirt was distinctly visible to members of the rescue party. Mr. Oakey together with Charles Bran, recovered the body, and it was taken to the Powers funeral chapel, from which it will be shipped to the home in Kewaunee.

Mr. White was an influential citizen of Kewaunee, being a heavy stockholder and officer of the Johnson Bros. Oil Co. there. He and his wife had intended to return home this morning, but delayed their trip until Sunday in order that he might go fishing. He had no children.

Conference of Hard Coal Men In Deadlock

Conference Breaks On Arbitration; Rail Chiefs Meet Today

(By the Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA—With the hard coal parleys broken up as a result of the inability of miners and operators to agree on the arbitration problem those anxious for peace in the anthracite fields today commented upon the fact that the door was left open for future negotiations in the statement issued jointly by the negotiators. This statement announced that the conference was unable to agree and that it had adjourned to meet at the call of the secretary upon the request of either side.

The abrupt halt in the proceedings followed the insistence by the operators on some form of arbitration in the future, during which the miners would remain at work. A sharp difference developed as to the length of the contract to be signed. Operators offered to pay the old wage rates until next March 31, with arbitration after that date. Miners demanded the old rate until March 31, of 1923.

Peace in Soft Coal Field.

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Peace generally reigned in the unionized bituminous coal districts of the nation today except in certain Pennsylvania districts and the southwestern states. It was estimated by union leader that four fifths of the union districts had been covered by the settlements thus far. Agreement in the southwest was expected soon.

Fuel distributing committees are at work in many states and federal distributing proposals are awaiting approval by Pres. Harding. Congress is expected soon to authorize creation of a federal committee to investigate the coal industry.

Rail Chiefs Meet Today

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Efforts of the "Big Five" brotherhoods acting as mediators in the shop crafts strike, to succeed where others failed will be put to the test today when the heads of 148 roads, meeting here, will vote whether to accept the brotherhoods' peace proposals or decline their good offices in favor of a "fight to the finish."

Heads of the western lines entered the conference full of optimism.

"The [illegible] railroad [illegible] were [illegible] the [illegible] negotiating [illegible] settlement of the Nation-wide shopmen's strike."

It was understood that the eastern roads, at their morning session had voted unanimously to stand pat on their refusal to reinstate strikers with full seniority rights, but that their reply would contain counter-proposals leaving the door to peace still open. This reply, it was expected would be conveyed to the mediators late today.

A statement issued by the brotherhood's mediation committee read:

"The mediation committee of the five transportation organizations has returned to New York to be of any service it can in effecting a settlement. We are holding ourselves in readiness for immediate conferences with the executives whenever they may desire them and are continually in touch with officers of the union."

CRIVITZ, Wis. — Gov. J. J. Blaine, in his campaign speech here today, urged that all La Follette, Progressive Republicans turn out to the polls on primary election day, September 5, expressing the fear that 'overconfidence of our friends may create an apathy that will keep many of them from the polling booths."

"No matter how strong the progressives are," the governor continued, "a battle is not won until it is completed. The great danger is that many may feel that the whole ticket is safe and thereby endanger the success by staying away from the primary election. I urge both men and women to go to the polls, for if the women do not vote then the men are casting but half a vote.

"If progressives will only appreciate that the reactionary forces of this state will marshall their entire strength and that the limousine will vote its full strength, they will not fail to vote."

TAKES JOHNSON TO TASK.

FENNIMORE — In a speech delivered here today, Sol Levitan, candidate for state treasurer, took the present treasurer to task for talking economy without himself putting it into practice.

"The State Treasurer has openly attacked Adjt. Gen. Holway for extravagance in the conduct of his department" said Mr. Levitan. "The fact is that if General Holway deserves any criticism, it should be in praise of the effective and efficient service he has rendered in carrying out his duties, both during the war and since. Before the state treasurer begins to sweep other people's doorsteps, he had better look after his own. It is a fact that the treasurer's department was the only one that had to appeal to the emergency finance board because the treasurer had gone over his budget. When it comes to preaching economy to the other fellow, Henry has few competitors."

SEES PROGRESSIVE "BARREL."

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — The La Follette Progressive Republican candidates, in talking about large "slush funds," to elect their opponents to office in Wisconsin are trying to raise a smoke screen to distract the attention of voters from the fact that they refused to amend the corrupt practices act as pledged in the Republican platform, in a manner that would prevent them from having "a barrel of money spent to elect radicals," Atty. Gen William J. Morgan said in a campaign speech here.

The candidate told of his efforts to have the state corrupt practices act changed to include the report of expenditures of all leagues, clubs and associations, and declared that the present governor had failed to carry out the plank in the Republican platform calling for the amendment.

"They did not want to amend the law as we are pledged to amend it because it would have interfered with their campaign plans for this year," Atty. Gen. Morgan asserted. He declared that the La Follette forces in the last campaign spent over $250,000, largely funds of the Nonpartisan league which had never been accounted for.

"Think of it," the candidate said, "a quarter of a million dollars for this bunch that says Senator Newberry ought to be in jail. Why, Newberry is a piker compared to them."

SOLOMON LEVITAN and Lieut. Gov. Comings continued their speaking tour yesterday. The first failure of the trip was at Cobb where they had no meeting.

At Highland, 150 people, many of whom were farmers, very enthusiastically received the speeches of Mr. Levitan and Lieut. Gov. Comings.

Fifty people were present at Edmond, where many of the women greeted the speakers with much enthusiasm. Seventy-five people received them at Linden.

The evening meeting at Mineral Point was in charge of Mr. C. W. Hutchinson, Progressive candidate for the assembly in Iowa county. He introduced the speakers to an audience of 350 people.

CROWD AT DELAVAN

MR. and Mrs. B. O. Reynolds accompanied Mrs. La Follette on their tour yesterday. Mrs. Reynolds spoke at every meeting.

At Delavan Mr. Morrissay had charge of the meeting which was held in the hall. One hundred fifty people were present. Mrs. E. E. Walker presided.

Mr. E. H. Sprague, a well known Progressive, gave the use of the opera house at Elkhorn. Mr. Sprague said that Sen. La Follette had always spoken from that platform when in Elkhorn and his wife should have the same privilege. A boys' band, the pride of Elkhorn, played on the street and at the opening of the meeting which was presided over by Mrs. H. D. Dunbar, a young woman and wife of a leading Progressive. The first floor of the opera house was filled with some standing. The audience numbered 400.

Mrs. La Follettes reference to the nomination of B. O. Reynolds, Progressive candidate for the assembly was received with hearty applause.

BAKER DENIES CLAIM.

MARSHFIELD, Wis. — Statements of Gov. Blaine attributing success of the filled-milk bill to La Follette Progressive Republican members of the state legislature were said to be without foundation in fact by John F. Baker, candidate for attorney general, in a speech here today.

"Speaking in the very heart of the cheese industry of Wisconsin the executive virtually claimed credit for the filled milk law," Mr. Baker said. "The real facts are that Riley S. Young, when speaker of the assembly and now candidate for lieutenant governor, drafted the first filled milk bill, but when he found others had similar bills had all of them submitted to the assembly committee on agriculture which prepared the committee bill, and that Mr. Young, who was not an administration man, not only supported the bill but worked hard for its passage."

Diamond Sparkler In "Pot" At Crap Game Involved In Legal Tangle in Court Here

Wham, Bam, Dice! Who fades dis sparklah?

It was faded and when a "seven" rolled up when it wasn't wanted, a $500 diamond ring belonging to Robert Jones passed from the hands of Hugh Bostick to those of Otis Daniel, according to a suit begun in circuit court by Jones against Daniels.

Jones, in his complaint, alleges that he gave the ring to Bostick as security for a $65 loan on Aug. 15. When he wanted to repay the loan and get back the ring, he charges, he was told by Bostick that Daniels had the ring as a result of misfortune with the "cubicle ivories."

Daniels has refused to return the ring, according to Jones, and a court order requiring its delivery is asked.

Predict Soft Coal Output Normal Soon

See 9 Million Tons Weekly Production Within A Week

WASHINGTON — The department of labor on the basis of report from its conciliators predicted that within a week sufficient bituminous mines will be in operation to produce 9,000,000 tons weekly. Normal production of bituminous prior to the strike amounted to approximately 8,000,000 tons and department of labor officials saw in in their conciliators' reports a return to normalcy in production and a possibility of an excess production that would aid the nation in making up for what was lost by the nearly five months suspension.

Senate Can't Play Politics With Bonus —M'CUMBER

Finance Committee Head Opens Battle For Soldier Bill

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Enactment of the Soldiers bonus legislation at this session of congress is demanded by every precept of financial justice and every principle of political honor, Chairman M'Cumber of the finance committee, declared today in opening senate debate on the amended public bill, with its bank loan certificate provision in lieu of the original proposal for a cash bonus.

M'Cumber told the senate the time had come for congress to show that it was not attempting to play politics with the American soldier, that it was acting in "good faith" when it passed the first bonus just before the elections in 1920.

Referring to the position taken by Pres. Harding and Secy. Mellon last year, when the executives asked the senate to defer action on the bonus bill because of the then financial condition of the treasury, Sen. McCumber requested that they now view the legislation "on the light of present day conditions."

Sen. M'Cumber argued that the funds necessary for the financing of the bonus legislation could be obtained from the refunded foreign debt, and that if the refunding were not completed when it became effective the interest from the British debt, which, he said, the British government already had planned to pay, would be sufficient.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The long-deferred soldiers' bonus legislation was on the senate calendar today for a second time, but its immediate future as well as its ultimate fate was in doubt.

Aside from the uncertainty as to the time for action in the senate, friends and foes of he bill alike were in the dark regarding Pres. Harding's attitude. The last official word from the executive expressed last March, was that congress either find the means of financing the legislation or postpone its enactment. The bill does not carry this means and some of those close to the president said he still was disposed to veto it.

Some proponents of the legislation argued that the interest from the British debt would take care of the payments for the first three years, a least, and looked for the president to approve such use of this fund.

Opponents of the legislation claimed strength of 25 votes, not sufficient to prevent its passage, but more than enough to sustain an executive veto.

Johnson Says He's Not Using Political Club

Denies He Has Sent Money Of State Into Wall Street

State Treasurer Henry Johnson in a statement today answered the assertions made by his opponent, in recent speeches, that through exercise of powers of the office he has held for 10 years Mr. Johnson had built up a machine which he exercised as a club over the heads of state banks.

"Mr. Levitan insinuates that I have built up a political machinery through the banks by making them state depositories. I doubt whether the people of Wisconsin can be made into a political machine by any one man. State depositories are designated by a board for the purpose of taking care of state funds and not for any political purpose. Personally, I own no bank stock.

"This candidate has previously insinuated that I have sent money from the state to Wall Street. The fact is, I invested in U. S. short term certificates of indebtedness the same as his bank did, and made $60,000 over and above the amount of interest that would have been collected through the banks, which was sufficient to run the state treasurer's office for two years. This is not a bad item from a taxpayers' viewpoint.

"When Solomon Levitan compares me with the governor of Illinois, the shoe is on the wrong foot. Mr. Levitan's bank, which has been a depository for many years, has had millions of dollars on deposit from different departments in the capitol, on which no interest has been paid. If this money had been turned into the state treasurer's office daily, the amount of interest received from said funds would have indebted the candidate's bank to the state of Wisconsin in the amount of from $15,000 to $20,000. I put a stop to this practice, as letters on file in the governor's office and in the office of the board of public affairs, dealing with this subject and written at a time where there was no political campaign in progress, will indicate."

CHICAGO — Opposition to censorship over expression and communication was expressed by Matthew Woll, president of the International Photo Engravers Union in his annual address to the organization. Foster Sees Frame Up In "Red Wreck Plot"

CHICAGO—Denying any connection with alleged red plots to wreck trains and specifically disclaiming any connection with the wreck of the Michigan Central passenger train at Gary, Ind., last Sunday, W. Z. Foster organizer of the Trades Union Education League today characterized the whole affair as a huge frame up against him because of his activities in organizing labor. "I have been in Chicago constantly," said Foster. "I have not been near Gary, Ind., nor have I been at Bridgeman, Mich, where I understand, according to some reports, I attended a communist meeting." He characterized the state's attorney's raid on his office as "nothing more than an ordinary event in my life. I am not frightened, nor afraid" he said.

Woman's Complex Life

Woman's complex life with its multitudinous calls is given as the reason for many a nervous-breakdown. Home work, social obligations, dressmaking and the care of children keep the 20th century woman in a whirlwind of activity until headaches develop, backache, nervousness and oftentimes more serious ills which are peculiar to her sex alone. Such women should not despair, but be guided by the letters so often published in this paper from women who have been in just such conditions, but who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Flying Circus At Fair

Lillian Boyer Sus pended From Plane

Lillian Boyer will be the outstanding feature among the attractions at the State Fair this year. She brings with her a flying Circus and although she is only 19 years old she is the star of the performance.

One of her stunts is jumping from the top wing of the aeroplane with the end of the rope between her teeth as her only support. In this precarious situation she rides to earth. She also changes from a racing automobile to an aeroplane and does dance steps upon the machine while it is in the air.

SAVINGS resulting from capacity manufacture are now offered to the buyer of the Studebaker Special-Six. The new price of $1275 is $200 under its former price.

Studebaker reductions became effective August 1st after Studebaker had completed the biggest seven months in its 70 years' history And at a time when Studebaker had 15,000 unfilled orders on hand! It is a Studebaker policy of long standing to share manufacturing savings with the customer.

The performance, durability, comfort and quality of the Special-Six are recognized everywhere. And here's new proof of its endurance: Studebaker's sales of repair parts, covering accidents as well as service, for the first seven months of 1922 were less than they were for the first seven months of 1919, in spite of the fact that 186,000 new cars were sold and put into operation since January 1, 1920.

The Special-Six at $1275 represents a new standard of value—the greatest value Studebaker has ever offered, and that means a value that is positively unapproached anywhere in the industry.

Van Dyne Farmers' Money Taken To Milwaukee; Tittemore Campaign Checks Produced

Checks are Produced at Hearing

E. C. Pommerening Continues Testimony; Hazy On Many Transactions

BY WILLIAM T. EVJUE

That $3,466.69 of the funds of the Van Dyne Farmers' Co-Operative Co. were drawn from the Old Commercial National Bank at Oshkosh in August, 1920 and deposited to the personal account of E. C. Pommerening at the American Exchange Bank, Milwaukee, was brought out at the hearing before Court Commissioner W. C. Kimball at Oshkosh on Monday. Mr. Pommerening was being examined adversely in the action which he has started for libel against The Capital Times for the publication of the results of an audit made by W. C. Voelz of the state marketing commission.

It was also brought out that Mr. Pommerening, who was the manager of the campaign of J. N. Tittemore for governor in 1920, paid Tittemore Campaign expenditures out of the personal account which he had opened at the American Exchange Bank in Milwaukee.

The request of William R. Curkeet, attorney for The Capital Times Co., for permission to examine Mr. Pommerening's account at the American Exchange Bank in Milwaukee was denied by Mr. Pommerening and his attorney.

Mr. Pommerening was very hazy about the reason for transferring $3,466.69 from the account of the Van Dyne Farmers Co-Operative Association at the Old Commercial National Bank at Oshkosh to his personal account at Milwaukee. Mr. Pommerening produced a number of canceled checks on the American Exchange Bank in Milwaukee and admitted that a number of these checks were given to pay expenses of the Tittemore campaign. Mr. Pommerening said that he could not find all of the checks, that he had no check stubs and that he did not know what had become of the pass book.

The following are the detailed questions and answers as propounded by Mr. Curkeet and answered by Mr. Pommerening.

Q. Will you produce what records you have of your transactions with the American Exchange Bank of Milwaukee?

Checks are produced.

Q. When did you open your account with the American Exchange Bank of Milwaukee?

A. When I started to live in Milwaukee that summer, which was about May.

Q. Of 1920?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you any record here of the funds deposited by you in that bank?

A. I have not.

Q. No records whatsoever?

A. No.

Q. You had a pass book on that account?

A. I think I did.

Q. Well, is there any question in your mind about that?

A. No reason to.

Q. You think the pass book has been lost?

A. I don't think so, but I do not seem to be able to locate it.

Q. Have you made a search for your pass book on this account?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What places are there for you to look where you have not searched?

A. I know of no place.

Q. Did you keep any duplicate deposit slips of your deposits?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you keep any check records which would show the amounts [illegible] deductions of the checks which [illegible] drew on the account?

A. I did at the time.

Q. Have you that record?

A. No.

Q. What has become of that record?

A. I presume it has been destroyed.

Q. You presume they are destroyed. You have no recollections?

A. No.

Q. Is it your same idea that the pass books have been destroyed?

A. Probably lost.

Q. When was your account at that bank closed out?

A. About the middle of October, [illegible], when I went to Chippewa [illegible].

Q. You have had no transactions with the American Exchange Bank since that time?

A. No.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. Not that I can recall.

Q. Does this bunch of canceled checks on the American Exchange Bank contain all of the checks you drew on that account?

A. All except one that I can't locate. A check for $300.

Q. A check for $300 missing?

A. [illegible]

Q. [illegible] did you determine that?

A. I [illegible] carrying them with me [illegible] find it.

Q. [illegible] payable?

A. [illegible] Old Commercial National Bank.

Q. What was that check drawn for?

A. It was given to that bank to [illegible] deposit for the Van Dyne Farmers Co-Operative Association.

Q. What was the date of that check?

A. Early in the spring.

Q. Turned over and paid to the Old Commercial Bank at Oshkosh?

A. Yes.

Q. Sure?

A. Yes.

Q. Or the Commercial National Bank?

A. Yes?

Q. During that month, did you deposit any other checks in the Old Commercial National Bank?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Did you have an account at the National Exchange Bank?

A. I had some notes discounted there once and paid for a note.

Q. Then did you open an account with the National Exchange Bank?

A. If you want to call it that.

Q. But you made arrangements so that you could draw a check on that bank?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. This $300 check that you say has been lost?

A. Not lost, but couldn't locate it.

Q. You can probably find it?

A. It wasn't at home, but was probably at the office.

Q. Did you look at the office?

A. Since then?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. You think maybe at the office at Madison?

A. It may be. I am quite sure it is.

Q. To the Old Commercial National Bank on what account?

A. Farmers Co-Operative Association.

Q. Why on that account?

A. Because it is their funds.

Q. Loaned by you to the Association?

A. Yes.

Q. Are there any other checks lost in your account with the American Exchange Bank other than the $300 one?

A. I don't know.

Q. You haven't made any efforts to determine if you have all these checks?

A. I brought all that I have. If any have been lost, I don't know.

Q. The American Exchange Bank issued you a balance sheet?

A. Yes; once a month.

Q. Have you those sheets?

A. I have not.

Q. What has become of them?

A. I presume destroyed.

Q. Have you any recollection of depositing of specific sums of money in the American Exchange Bank, Milwaukee?

A. No.

Q. You have no recollections of making deposits?

A. No.

Q. No records whereby you can determine what deposits you made in this bank?

A. No.

Q. Can you tell us where the various funds came from that were put into the American Exchange Bank account?

A. I don't know of any particular funds.

Q. Can you tell us of any particular funds of any particular individual or association deposited to this account at Milwaukee?

A. Some of my funds used by the Van Dyne Organization were deposited there.

Q. Why did you open this account at Milwaukee?

A. For convenience sake.

Q. You went there to live

A. Yes.

Q. Temporarily?

A. I left there that summer.

Q. You went there for a political campaign. Did you not?

Objected to by ptf. attorney.

Objection overruled.

A. Partly.

Q. The campaign I am referring to is J. M. Tittemore's for governor. There were other reasons then, other than for the campaign?

Objection to by ptf. attorney.

Objection overruled.

A. I had personal business.

Q. Personal business, Mr. Pommerening?

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't have any business of the Van Dyne Association in Milwaukee at that time. Did you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or on any plans of the Equity Society?

A. Very little, if any.

Q. Did you conduct a personal business in Milwaukee at the time you lived there?

A. I don't know whether you could call it personal business.

Q. Isn't it a fact that your time was devoted to political work?

A. A large part was so devoted.

Q. What part do you think, perhaps?

A. 50 per cent.

Q. For what other purposes?

A. I had been working pretty hard on the farm and wanted to spend some time in recuperating and to do nothing in particular.

Q. Isn't it a fact that your primary reason in moving to Milwaukee was to be in touch with this political campaign?

Objected to by ptf. attorney.

Objection overruled.

A. No, I don't think that was the primary reason. It was one of the things.

Q. Well, was your going for recreation the primary reason?

A. It wasn't all recreation by any means.

Q. Are you referring to work you did there?

A. To treatments.

Q. In the summer and fall of 1020?

A. Summer.

Q. Where were your headquarters at Milwaukee?

A. At the Miller Hotel.

Q. You didn't have your family with you?

A. Yes; as much as I had.

Q. Are you married?

A. I am not.

Q. Did your brother go there to live with you?

A. No, sir.

Q. You were there alone?

A. Yes.

Q. You remember, Mr. Pommerening, of some negotiations between you and the Old Commercial National Bank, Oshkosh, relating to a loan of $3,000 to the Van Dyne Association in the year 1920?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What security was there deposited with the bank for that loan?

A. My name.

Q. There were some other names, too; were there not?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. Wasn't there something of a written guaranty deposited with the bank to secure the repayment of the loan?

A. I think that guaranty was given the loan was made.

Q. Yes; how long after?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Month; days; weeks?

A. I think weeks.

Q. Was the money withdrawn from the bank and deposited to the credit of the Van Dyne Association before the note was deposited?

A. I think so.

Q. And you say that money was advanced on your personal guaranty?

A. Yes.

Q. A written guaranty?

A. Yes, my name on the note.

Q. What further security was given to the bank as security at this latter time? A matter of acceptance, you say. On the matter of that loan?

A. I don't think that there was any further guaranty.

Q. If any further security was given for that $3,000 loan than your own personal liability, you have no knowledge of it. Is that right, Mr. Pommerening?

A. Only an additional guaranty signed by three or four men.

Q. That was a guaranty of credit to the amount of $5,000 to the benefit of the Association?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Signed by what man?

A. I don't remember.

Q. And you signed it?

A. Yes.

Q. Who else?

A. Fred Sonneberg. I think it was signed by Fred Roehl; signed by myself. I don't remember any one else.

Q. We are calling that the $5,000 guaranty. Was it in the bank before or after this $3,000 loan was being made?

A. I think it was in the bank after.

Q. How was it that the guaranty happened to be given to the bank—do you remember the circumstances?

A. For the same purpose that guarantees are always given for.

Q. At the time the guaranty was made, was the Van Dyne Association indebted to the bank?

A. They evidently were or would be.

Q. Do you know whether before the guaranty was given to the bank?

A. At what time was the guaranty given?

Q. I am asking you.

A. I don't recall.

Q. Well, isn't it a fact, Mr. Pommerening, that because of the deposit with the bank of the guaranty the Van Dyne Association borrowed $3,000?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Are you sure about that?

A. No.

Q. You negotiated with the bank with reference to this matter; did you?

A. It occurs to me now that Mr. Fitch told me one time that it would be a good thing for me to get a guaranty so that they couldn't hold me for the entire amount. What time I don't know.

Q. Who are you?

A. Mr. Fitch.

Q. Are you prepared to testify here, Mr. Pommerening, that the Van Dyne Association had borrowed $3000 from the bank in the Spring before the written guaranty was arranged for?

A. I think so. That is my recollection of it.

Q. And that $3000 was put into the account of the Van Dyne Association at the Old Comercial National Bank?

A. Yes.

Q. And what became of that money?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know? Is that right?

A. What became of that exact money is pretty hard to trace through a bank account.

Q. Any idea what that $3000 was spent for?

A. It might be that $3000 or some other $3000.

Q. Have you any record of the withdrawals of money from the Van Dyne Association account during 1920?

A. No, except as I have been furnished with some of the items and by Mr. Voelz.

Q. You kept no record as money was withdrawn from time to time by the Association, excepting checks?

A. That was all turned over to my successor.

Q. I am not asking you what was turned over to your successor. I am asking you what was turned over to the bank.

A. I think so.

Q. Where are those records?

A. With the Van Dyne Association.

Q. You kept no further records?

A. No.

Q. In August of 1920, how was your personal account with the Association? Was it owing you money or did you owe it money?

A. Owing me.

Q. How much?

A. I don't know.

Q. Can't you give us any idea as of August 1920?

A. No.

Q. Haven't you any idea of such indebtedness?

A. No.

Q. For what purpose?

A. For advances made.

Q. When?

A. From time to time.

Q. Tell us all about these advances during January to August, 1920.

A. I don't think I can do that.

Q. Haven't you any record or canceled checks showing such indebtedness?

A. That was all in the records of the organization.

Q. No other records made.

A. I made no personal records, except what I carried in my head.

Q. Can you tell me of any specific advances what the Van Dyne Association was owing you on August 1, 1920?

A. One note of $3000.

Q. Signed by Mr. Lamb?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Paid at that time?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did the Van Dyne Association owe you any other money on August 1, 1920?

A. I think there was an item of $650.

Q. What item?

A. $650.

Q. I know; but how was it that this item arose?

A. The same as all the other items arose. Tryihg to run a $50,000 concern on $510.

Q. Did you advance this $650.

A. I did.

Q. What month?

A. July, 3, 1920, I think.

Q. Any question?

A. Very little.

Q. In the form of a certificate of deposit—was it not?

A. Yes.

Q. You got that certificate of deposit at what bank?

A. I think it was the State Bank of Oshkosh.

Q. Yes; and you carried it three days and you turned it over to the Old Commercial National Bank. Is that right?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Well, what did you do with it?

A. I deposited it the same day

Q. Why a certificate of deposit?

A. I would sooner handle it than cash.

Q. You had $650 in cash when you bought this certificate of deposit at the State Bank of Oshkosh?

A. No, I didn't say that.

Q. Well, what funds did you have?

A. I don't know.

Q. Where did these funds come from?

A. It may have been a personal note from the bank.

Q. A personal note from the bank?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And they loaned you that at that time?

A. Possibly.

Q. Any question in your mind?

A. I can't recall exactly, but they might have loaned it to me.

Q. Have you any records here of your transactions with the State Bank of Oshkosh?

A. I have no records with the State Bank of Oshkosh.

Q. Did you pay this note for $650?

A. I certainly have.

Q. Did you buy this certificate with cash or with borrowed money?

A. I just told you I did not.

Q. Outside of what you have told us, can you give us any further information? Can you?

A. No.

Q. Did you have any note from the Van Dyne Association to show this liability of $650 to you for that $650 advancement?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who in the Association did you inform of this advancement?

A. I don't know that I informed any one in particular. Mr. Lamb is acquainted with all the facts.

Q. The account at the Old Commercial at that time was in bad shape. Was it not?

A. I don't know what you mean by "bad shape".

Q. What made you advance the $650? What was it used for?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know of any reason why you had to make this advancement? Do you?

A. No.

Q. On August 1, 1920, did the Association owe you any money for other advancements than the $650 one?

A. I don't know.

Q. Can you remember any?

A. I don't recall any just now.

Q. That is all you can recall?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you looked over your records?

A. I have, but not for any specific dates.

Q. And you have also been looking over your records attempting to explain that record of Mr. Voelz since he produced it several weeks ago?

Objected to ptf. attorney.

Objected to by ptf. attorney.

Objection overruled.

Q. Were any of these funds deposited in the American Exchange Bank at Milwaukee used for the benefit of the Van Dyne Association?

A. No sir, except when I bought personal items from the Van Dyne Association.

Q. What do you mean by "personal items" when you were carrying that account in the American Exchange Bank?

A. I don't know.

Q. Where are your canceled checks? Will you look them over and see if you can tell us something more definite?

Q. Is this one of September 3, 1920 for $72 on the Van Dyne State Bank to the Van Dyne Farmers Co-Operative Association, signed by you, the only one record that you have showing the payment of any money to the Association on the American Exchange Bank of Milwaukee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was this check for?

A. For some binder twine.

Q. You have any records showing that this was the only money paid to the Van Dyne Association out of the American Exchange Bank?

A. No. I just testified differntly.

Q. What clue?

A. A $300 check.

Q. Have you that here?

A. I told you I had not.

Q. Is that check in Madison?

Q. You know as a matter of fact, do you not, Mr. Pommerening, that you checked out of the Old Commercial National $3466.69 of the Van Dyne funds and deposited at the American Exchange Bank? Those funds I am asking you about were checked out of the Van Dyne Association in the Old Commercial National Bank at Oshkosh and deposited to your personal account at Milwaukee. Isn't that right?

A. I think so.

Q. Is there any question in your mind?

A. The amount may not be right.

Q. From what other sources have you received funds deposited in the Milwaukee bank?

A. I was operating a farm.

Q. You had your farm funds in this same account?

A. No.

Q. Well, what other funds?

A. From other funds but not the regular funds.

Q. How much?

A. I don't know.

Q. As much as $100?

A. I don't know.

J. As $1,000?

A. I don't know.

Q. Somewhere between $1,000 and $100?

A. I don't know.

Q. You can't tell us?

A. No.

Q. It may be as much as $3,000?

A. No.

Q. As much as $2,000?

A. I don't think so.

Q. You don't think so but you are not sure. As much as $1,500?

A. I don't know.

Q. From what other sources did you receive funds for this account other than the Van Dyne Association and your farm?

A. Men throughout the state would send money for Mr. Tittemore's political campaign.

Q. Have you any records of these funds?

A. I think that record is in the secretary of state's office.

Q. Have you any record? I an, asking you.

A. I have not.

Q. Did you also have a bank account under the name of the Consumers and Producers Anti-Profiteering League?

A. I don't think so.

Q. You were secretary of that league?

A. Yes.

Q. That was in behalf of Mr. Tittemore?

A. As I recall it, yes.

Q. As secretary of that league, you claimed to have received some $3,427 from Equity members in amounts of $5 or less. Do you remember that?

A. No.

Q. You don't remember that? Well, did you receive any contributions from Equity members in amounts of $5 or less for Mr. Tittemore's campaign?

A. We received lots of them.

Q. Was there a request made in The Equity News for such funds?

A. I don't know.

Q. Where is the record of this?

A. I don't know.

Q. Have you ever seen such records?

A. Yes.

Q. Whose control?

A. Mine. I think I turned them over to Mr. Tittemore.

Q. Any question in your mind as to whether you did or did not?

A. Not any question.

Q. What record was kept of these contributions?

A. Simply itemized.

Q. In a book?

A. A loose leaf proposition.

Q. Who was it that made the entries?

A. A girl by the name of Miss Sprecher.

Q. Elba Sprecher?

A. Yes.

Q. Where was she residing at the time?

A. I don't know.

Q. At Milwaukee.

A. Probably.

Q. Do you know where she resides now?

A. I do not.

Q. Were requests sent out from campaign headquarters to Equity members, asking for these contributions?

A. Not limited to Equity members.

Q. Were Equity members solicited for $5 or less for this campaign?

A. I don't know whether they were solicited more than any one else or as Equity members.

Q. Do I understand that when any one made a contribution to Mr. Tittemore's campaign they received a free subscription to The Equity News?

A. No. It had nothing to do with the Equity Society.

Q. These various funds that were contributed to Mr. Tittemore's campaign fund were deposited to your account at the American Exchange Bank in Milwaukee?

A. No.

Q. Where were the funds deposited?

A. Cash not deposited.

Q. Cashed out for what?

A. For political purposes.

Q. That was a small percentage used?

A. I would say not.

Q. So a large amount of this campaign was carried on with cash?

A. I should say it was.

Q. A considerable amount?

A. I don't know what percentage it was.

Q. You were the man responsible for the funds?

A. To some extent—yes.

Q. Who else was responsible in the Tittemore campaign?

A. Mr. Tittemore himself.

Q. Did you have an account in Milwaukee in which some of these funds were kept?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. So far as you know, there came to your hands all of the funds contributed by any person for the benefit of the Tittemore campaign?

A. No.

Q. Let us have the truth, then.

A. I think I am telling the truth.

Q. Now, what percentage of the funds that came for the Tittemore campaign, what percentage to others than yourself?

A. I told you a minute ago I do not know.

Q. How do you know then?

A. I happened to remember a certain item.

Q. What item?

A. An item by Paul Schwennburg.

Q. $100—was it not?

A. No, there may be other items. I have hazy recollections of other items.

Q. Hazy recollections of what others?

A. I can't remember any specific ones.

Q. Mr. Tittemore's campaign was conducted under the name of the Producers and Consumers Anti-Profiteering League and you were the secretary of that League?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was part of your duties to know what funds were received and disbursed?

A. I think I did know.

Q. Did you know of any other money that didn't go into the American Exchange Bank other than the $100 contribution by Mr. Schwennburg?

A. I don't recall any definite item. They were small and hard to remember. Had some of the contributions been of $1,000 I would have remembered.

Q. Any idea how much those items that you didn't handle would come to?

A. I don't know.

Q. Five hundred dollars?

A. I don't know.

Q. Have you any objection to our obtaining from the American Exchange Bank of Milwaukee a statement of your account with that bank? Have you any reasons why you don't want us to examine that account?

A. No.

Q. Are you willing to have us examine your accounts with that bank?

Objected to by ptf. attorney.

By Mr. Curkeet) Notice is served at this time if the witness adheres to the advice of his counsel, we will move the court to strike out the complaint in this case.

Ptf. attorney advises witness to withhold answer.

(By Mr. Pommerening) I will follow my counsel.

(Mr. Curkeet) And I understand that you refuse to answer the question on advice of your counsel?

(Mr. Pommerening) I refuse consent to their going into the records.

Q. Do you disclose why you refuse to have us examine the records?

A. There is no reason to go into my private business.

Q. Do you know that you have precipitated this examination? I like a little more discussion of this book kept by this young lady and these contributions from Equity members. Do you remember the color of this book?

A. No, I can't remember.

Q. How long? How wide?

A. I don't know.

Q. These contributions from the Equity members were deposited in your account at the American Exchange Bank?

A. Some of them.

Q. How much of them?

A. I answered that twice. I don't know.

A. As much as 50%?

A. I don't know.

Q. Well, what other accounts were the Equity members' contributions deposited in?

A. Not any that I know of.

Q. Now then, all of this $3,466.39 that was drawn from the Van Dyne Association funds and put in the American Exchange Bank in your personal account and was checked out by you while you were in Milwaukee was used for the political campaign of Mr. Tittemore?

A. No.

Q. How much of the $3,466.39 was used in Mr. Tittemore's campaign?

A. I don't know.

Q. Some of it was; was it not?

A. Some of it probably.

Q. What percentage of it?

A. I don't know.

Q. As much as 50%?

A. I don't know.

Q. As much as 20%?

A. If I can't say 50%, I can't say 20%.

Q. 75%?

A. I can't answer that.

Q. What percentage do you think it was; in your best judgment?

A. I don't recall, so that I can make an estimate.

Q. Were they all drawn at once?

A. No.

Q. How many different checks were?

A. I don't know. You have it before you; you can tell it better than I.

Q. Why was it that funds were drawn out of the Van Dyne Association account in different amounts?

A. I presume that I wouldn't have any use for all of them at once.

Q. For instance a check of August 20, 1920, for $165. Why was that check made out for that amount at that time?

A. I don't recall.

Q. The check of August 25, 1920, for $750? Why made out at that time and for that amount?

A. I don't know.

Q. Have you any recollections of why and for what purpose you drew a check on the Van Dyne Association account on September 13, 1920, for $500?

A. I don't.

Q. As to the check for $2,501.39 drawn September 16, 1920. Do you remember what the reason was for drawing that money out of the Van Dyne account at that time?

A. I presume I had it coming.

Q. Coming for what?

A. $3,000 on the note of Mr. Lamb.

Q. You had borrowed $3,000?

A. Yes.

Q. That is, the $3,000 obtained from the Old Commercial National and was deposited in the bank for funds of the Van Dyne Association?

A. Yes.

Q. Deposited in the account of the Van Dyne Association?

A. Yes.

Q. I presume that money was necessary for the organization at this time?

A. I suppose.

Q. And you took it down to Milwaukee and spent it in the Tittemore campaign?

A. Yes, but in my private account.

Q. You put in your private account for these checks I have mentioned?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there any resolutions passed by the Board of Directors of the Van Dyne Association, authorizing you to withdraw the money of the organization?

A. They were my funds.

Q. That will be for the court and the jury to determine. You withdraw $3,466:39 from the account of the Van Dyne Association at the Old Commercial National Bank?

A. There was no special resolutions. It wasn't the custom of the organization to do business that way.

Q. Was it the custom of the organization to leave the matter of handling the funds entirely to you without any supervision of the Board of Directors?

A. There was supervision all right.

Q. Did you discuss that with any member of the Board of Directors?

A. Not with my personal funds. I didn't withdraw any funds.

Q. Mr. Pommerening, you must answer my question.

A. I am trying to answer them.

Q. This money was loaned by the Old Commercial National Bank for the benefit of the Van Dyne Association—was it not?

A. I don't know.

Q. It was understood that the Association would receive the benefit. It was distinctly understood that the money was for the Van Dyne Association account.

A. I don't know.

Q. Who did you talk with?

A. Mr. Fitch, or Mr. Williams, or Mr. Schmidt.

Q. Were you there several times about this matter?

A. No.

Q. Then, who did you tell?

A. I am just telling you I don't recall.

Q. With reference to your drawing this money out of the account of the Van Dyne Association and your taking and putting it into your personal account at Milwaukee, you never had any talks with the Board of Directors about it?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they assembled in a Board of Director's meeting?

A. No.

Q. What directors did you talk with?

A. With practically all of them.

Q. Give me the names of those you have talked with.

A. With Fred Roehl.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Roehl that you intended to draw this money from the Van Dyne Association and put it in your personal account?

A. I told him that I would either have to be released from the personal note at the Van Dyne State Bank or else the money would be drawn from the Old Commercial Bank as I needed it.

Q. Who else?

A. That is very difficult to say.

Q. To the best of your knowledge?

A. I think I spoke to Mr. Lamb about it.

Q. Who else?

A. Maybe to Mr. Zentner about it.

Q. Which Mr. Zentner?

A. Edward.

Be An Accountant
A Private Secretary

Bookkeeping, Accounting and Auditing offer an absolutely unlimited field for development and progress. It has been pointed out repeatedly that accountancy is the best paid profession in the world.

The famous lawyer gets a big fee now and then for conducting a case or giving an opinion. The great architect may gather in large sums of money for planning a huge skyscraper and supervising its construction. But there are long intervals when business is dull and the income very meager. Statistics prove that the combined average earnings each year of the leading men in each of these two professions do not equal the income of Public Accountants of similar standing. What the public accountant does is little known outside of the close and confidential circle of business.

The Private Secretary

Probably one of the most atttractive courses of training available to a young woman of real earnestness and purpose, who has had the advantages of a high school education is a course preparing her for a business position of Private or Executive Secretary to the president or general manager of a Business Concern.

Realizing these unlimited opportunities which this class of employment affords Specially Trained young women, this school has added to its curriculum, with the opening of its Fall Semester, this Special Course which is a tracting many students over a wide territory.

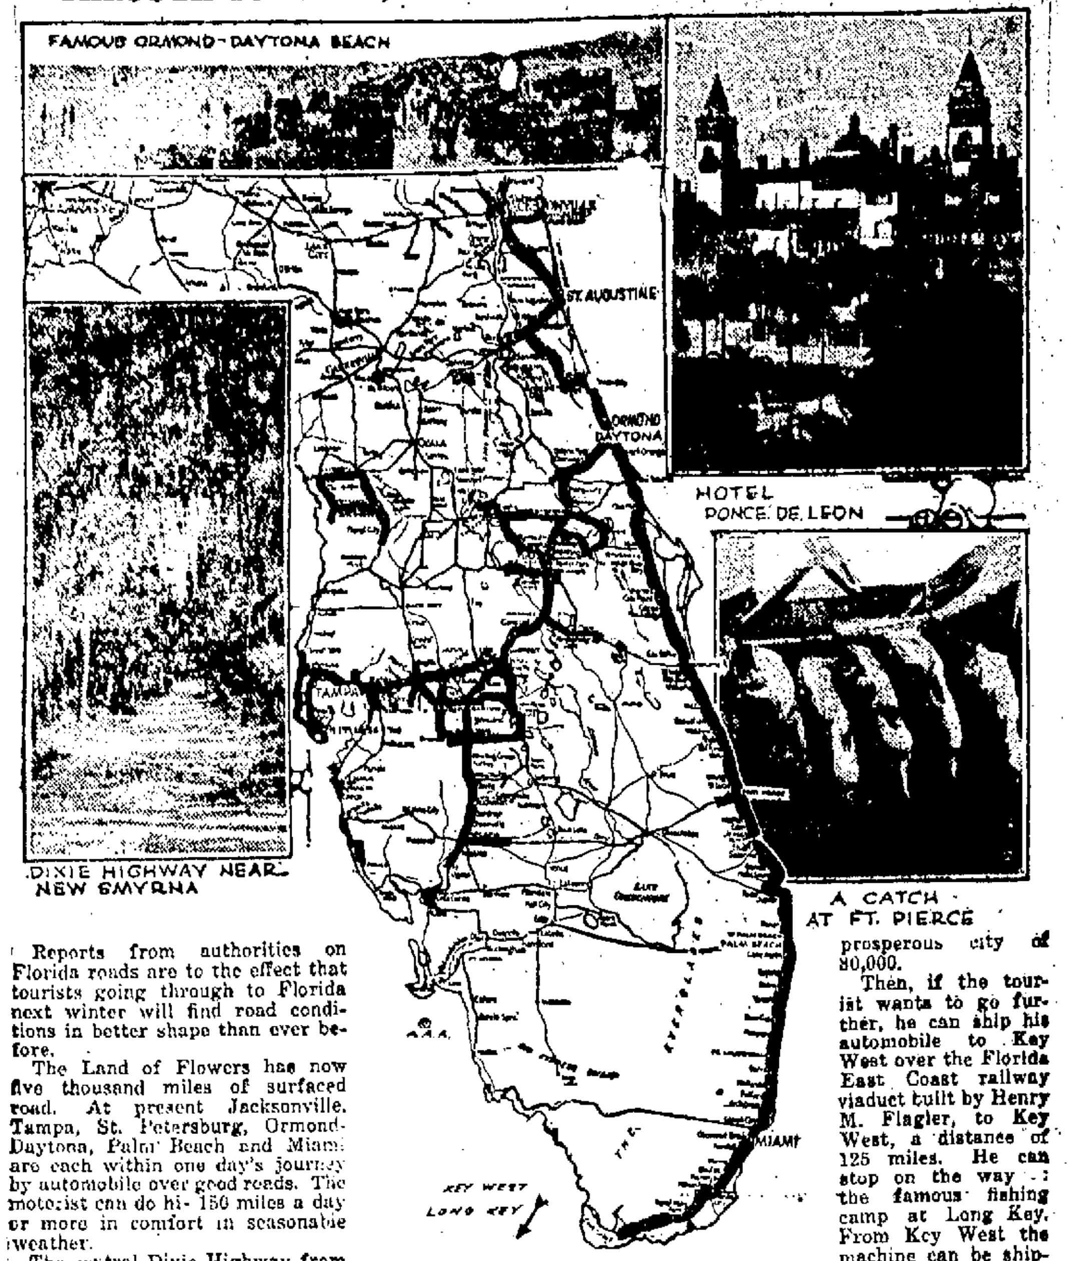
FAMOUS DIXIE HIGHWAY SKIRTS FLORIDA EAST COAST CLEAR THROUGH TO MIAMI; ADVANCE INFORMATION FOR MOTORISTS



Reports from authorities on Florida roads are to the effect that tourists going through to Florida next winter will find road conditions in better shape than ever before.

The Land of Flowers has now five thousand miles of surfaced road. At present Jacksonville, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Ormond-Daytona, Palm Beach and Miami are each within one day's journey by automobile over good roads. The motorist can do his 150 miles a day or more in comfort in seasonable weather.

The central Dixie Highway from Chattanooga to Jacksonville is all good, according to the Jacksonville Automobile Club.

Jacksonville is the starting point for the greatest winter tour in the world along a marine boulevard down the east coast of Florida, clear through to Miami, 377 miles, a sea skirting journey that is unrivaled in charm and scenic value.

The East Coast Boulevard follows the scenic route of the Florida East Coast Railroad from Jacksonville through St. Augustine, Ormond and Daytona, including the famous thirty mile ocean speedway. From Ormond to Miami, a distance of 295 miles, motorists are constantly in touch with the Atlantic Ocean and the Halifax and Indian Rivers, a marvelous journey in which semi-tropical groves blend their odors with ocean breezes. It passes through Palm Beach, where the tourist can find every accommodation from the most modest to the most luxurious equipment to be found in the Royal Poinciana and the Breakers hotels. And thence down to Miami, seat of the magnificent Hotel Royal Palm and prosperous city of 80,000.

Then, if the tourist wants to go further, he can ship his automobile to Key West over the Florida East Coast railway viaduct built by Henry M. Flagler, to Key West, a distance of 125 miles. He can stop on the way at the famous fishing camp at Long Key. From Key West the machine can be shipped over the 8-hour car ferry to Havana.

The Dixie Highway from Jacksonville south to St. Augustine, 41 miles, is brick except the first 9 miles. From St. Augustine south the road is brick for 43 miles and macadam for about 8 miles beyond Daytona. For the last 184.9 miles to Miami, the road is good oiled rock all the way. The Florida State Road Commission has taken over the road from Duval county line to Bunnell and gangs are placed at work putting this section in A-1 shape for winter motorists.

He died from bullet wounds received while he was being arrested at Skerries County, Dublin, during a clash between republican and rebel forces.

HUNTERS FLOCK TO BRITISH COLUMBIA WITH ADVENT OF THE HUNTING SEASON

Byron Harmon of Banff, Alta. brings down his goat after a long chase and stiff climb
Rocky Mountain Goat He looks lazy, but oh how he can travel
Seventy Six Year old hunter and Indian guide hunting in Cassiar District in B.C.

British Columbia offers the best still remaining, easily accessible big game hunting territory on the continent. It is not necessary to go far afield from the railway and some of the best hunting grounds are as follows: Beginning at the east, there is the East Kootenay district, reached from Invermere. Two ranges may be hunted here: in the Rockies on the east are to be found moose, mule and whitetail deer, mountain goat, mountain sheep, grizzly, cinnamon and black bear, while among the Selkirks on the west, are caribou, mule and whitetail deer, mountain goat, grizzly, cinnamon and black bear. Very satisfactory wild fowl shooting may be enjoyed on the lakes and flats in the late Fall.

Deer, grizzly and black bear, caribou and goat are found in the country around Chase. Deer are found from 4 miles of the town; bear from 20 miles; caribou beyond the 30 mile mark, and goat from 30 miles. Excellent game bird shooting is to be had here, including ducks, geese, pheasant and ruffed grouse with some snipe and plover at various points.

Kamloops is the gateway to a rich sporting region where goats, brown, cinnamon, black and grizzly bear, small deer, moose and occasional caribou and sheep (3 varieties) are to be found. From here expeditions to the Fort Fraser country may be arranged—including about 176 miles of canoeing—where deer, bear and other big game may be shot.

A hunting area rapidly growing in favor is the Cariboo District reached from Ashcroft. It is off the beaten path, therefore the game is plentiful and includes grizzly, black and brown bear, moose, caribou, goat and sheep. Fishing for gamey trout is another attraction of this region.

Of course the Cassiar District to the north stands in a class by itself, for the cost of a hunting trip there prohibits a great influx of hunters, insuring good bags for those who hunt there. Thirteen hunters taken in by Frank Callbreath, the outfitter at Telegraph Creek, in 1921 shot 11 moose, 22 caribou, 21 goat, 22 sheep and 20 bear, ten of which were grizzlies.

Grace of Line Makes This Gown Fashion Favorite In Offerings of Madison Stores

BY CECILE.

Late seasons have shown a scorn of trimmings which tend to mar the lines of a gown. Simplicity has long been the keynote of afternoon gowns and this season the perfectly plain dress but with a bit of draping at the side or a wrapped effect is the accepted mode.

And there is lace on every gown of the minute. Manchester's show a dinner gown of metalic copper lace over a henna slip, and another dress that is a combination of brilliant green crepe and self color lace. But the black satin or crepe with the overdress of silk lace is the most popular in lace effects.

The hats hint of lace in a perky bow or a tiny veil edge, usually of black or sometimes of silver with black. Even the stockings have suggestions of lace that are often large flower patterns or cob-web in design.

Sleeves may be almost anything one can imagine except tight. They may extend more than the arm length and are known to go below the dress hem in some of the newest gowns, with a slit for the wrist. The formal gowns will have sleeves of sheerest materials this winter, but with or without sleeves, lace brings the dinner gown a grace of line that is the season's demand.

Miss Monona Claire Swerig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Swerig, 601 E. Johnson st., is to be married to Matthew J. Ryan, this afternoon in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will be at home at 233 N. Leamington ave., Chicago after the first of October.

How Bobbed Hair Girl Solved Curling Problem

"My worries began after having my hair bobbed. I simply could not keep it in curl, especially on damp days. After reading about liquid silmerine in all the leading magazines, I decided to give it a trial. I applied it according to directions and then put my hair up and left it over night. I was so delighted with the lovely curls in the morning and, best of all, they stay nice all day, regardless of the weather. When my hair gets straight again, instead of giving it another application, I simply dampen it with water before putting it on curlers. By so doing, one silmerine application lasts a week or ten days. I for one am thankful for this miraculous liquid silmerine."

This letter from a Pennsylvania enthusiast is one of many which show that liquid silmerine is equally efficacious for bobbed and long hair. This harmless liquid, obtainable at any drug or department store, is just splendid for keeping any hair beautifully wavy, soft and glossy.—Adv.

A "flying squadron of 75 members of the Madison Red Arrow club will on Thursday take the remaining 1800 field day tickets and sell them to the many prospects who have, to date, failed to procure their tickets.

This sale will insure the financial success of the big reunion and guarantee an attendance, including visitors and 32d Division men, of 17,000 people. It cannot be estimated how many will motor into Madison for the big day on Tuesday, to witness the parade and see the spectacular field day in the afternoon, but a limited number of tickets on the east side of the field have been printed at the last moment to take care of this emergency.

ROOMS NEEDED

Chairman John St. John, of the billeting committee, requests that no one take in service men and their guests unless they present the card from the billeting committee. Unless this is done the system devised to house the attendants will be broken up, as it is impossible to assign rooms when they have been occupied without the "knowledge of the committee.

"Jump in Buddy, Ride with me", promises to be one of the most popular invitations of the 32nd Division Reunion, which opens here Saturday. This is the sign that every Madison automobile owner should secure immediately and paste on his windshield.

RIDE WITH ME

It's an invitation to the guests of the city of Madison, the boys of the 32nd Division here from Saturday to Tuesday to ride along with you if they happen to be going your way. One of the boys may be going from the Northwestern depot to the postoffice. Your sign will let him know that you are one of Madison's goodfellows and that you will take him along if you are going that way. Another ex doughboy may be stranded out in Vilas Park and if your windshield offers the invitation, he'd be tickled to ride back to the square with you providing of course that you are going to the square.

The 35 lacrosse players will arrive from Winnipeg on Monday, and will be billeted at the city Y. M. C. A. They will be under the care of Arthur M. McFadyen, manager, who is western representative of the Canadian Underground Cable company. Lacrosse occupying the same position in Canada that football does in this country, services such as Mr. McFadyen is rendering in the interests of this sport are gratuitous.

Heard At The Fair

BY MARK TROXELL.

"We have a $17,000 proposition this side of the grandstand," remarked M. M. Parkinson, secretary of the Dane County Fair, as he stood in the track-circled oval yesterday. "That is what our 1922 races, vaudeville acts, and fireworks are costing us. No other county fair in the state has ever approached our 1922 program, when you consider the expense involved."

* * *

The presence of several thousand children yesterday failed to satisfy the capable secretary.

"We ought to have four times as many kids," he remarked. "Few people realize what all this costs, and even yet some Dane county people don't know that general admission and grandstand seats are, on Children's Day, free to every youngster under 15 years of age."

* * *

Andy Bryant, the warbling negro tenor who manages the Florida Four, a colored quartette appearing in the vaudeville bill presented between races, asked a country boy if he wanted to earn a nickle.

"Sure I want to," the urchin responded. "What must I do?"

"Step across the track and bring me four $10 bills from that man," Andy directed.

"Which man?" asked the boy.

But Andy had "beaten it."

* * *

Looking at Andy from the rear, any observer could be forgiven for thinking that Frank Hoover, Middleton cafe owner, had abandoned serving meals for fair-ground musical work.

* * *

Andy was asked how he books attractions for his quartette. He explained that each fair was a separate job for him. He cannot sign up with a circuit, and have a central bureau notify him where to go next.

"So next week you'll be singing at some other county fair?"

Andy grinned.

"Boss, we just hope we will."

* * *

The inability of the C. M. & St. P. railroad to furnish special trains for fair week may cut down attendance. Certainly the absence of trains kept down the children's crowd yesterday.

* * *

Unless Madison people make a special effort, Madison Day will not bring the big crowd of other years.

* * *

Owners of cars are urged to be specially cautious in driving from the end of the South Madison car line to the fair's gates. People without cars are forced to walk that distance on the concrete highway. After yesterday, the road had all the ear-marks of a thoroughfare reserved for one-way traffic. Any late comer to the afternoon events will have his troubles in meeting home-bound traffic.

* * *

The beautiful singing of one vaudeville performer attracted unusual attention. Inquiry revealed that the singer of "Mother Macree"—which made a great hit with the children—is a young lady from another land.

Asked for her name, she replied, "Mary McLeod."

"From Canada, I suppose?"

"No," with a slight smile, "I'm from Scotland."

No one could dispute it. She pronounced Scotland with almost a long "o" and she certainly can sing.

* * *

C. R. Ellis, in charge of merry-go-rounds, whips, seaplanes, and other pleasure-producing devices, was formerly night editor for the Milwaukee Sentinel. Since he left the newspaper game, he has added weight if not stature.

"I thought the night editor's job had action," Ellis reminisced, "but furnishing amusements at county fairs has it beaten a mile."

* * *

L. P. Langford, who furnishes electricity for the nightly pleasure seekers, had charge of the lake-front lighting during Milwaukee's recent convention of all American advertising clubs. His company handles the state lighting at the Wisconsin state fair.

"But I don't get anything soft like that," he added. "I'll keep going north until I wind up at Menominee. That means another month of county fair lighting."

Drainage is bad for mosquitoes and doctors; screening, bad for flies and undertakers.

Uncle Wiggily and the Brush Pile

Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

(By Howard R. Garis.)

"Here is the rake, Uncle Wiggily!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, as the muskrat lady housekeeper came to the front door of the hollow stump bungalow. The bunny rabbit gentleman was half asleep on the porch.

"The rake? The rake, Nurse Jane? Why in the world should you give me the rake? asked Uncle Wiggily. "Is the Skillery Scallery Alligator around here; and does his back need scratching?"

"Oh, nothing like that!" laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But there are some dried leaves and many dead branches of trees, to say nothing of dried bushes around our bungalow. I thought it would be a good idea to rake them up into a brush pile and burn them. Then it would be more tidy around here."

"Where are you?" cried the angry Fox.

"You are right," said Uncle Wiggily, after looking down on each side of his pink, twinkling nose, to make sure it was on straight. "I'll rake up a big brush pile and this evening I'll gather the animal children around it and we'll have a potato roast."

So saying Uncle Wiggily took the rake from Nurse Jane, and soon was busy about his bungalow, raking the leaves and brush up into a pile to burn later in the evening.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, what are you doing?" suddenly asked a voice, as the bunny uncle was thrusting the rake from him, and then pulling it toward him, which is the way you do when making a brush pile. "Are you building yourself a new bungalow?" the voice went on.

At first the bunny thought perhaps after all, the Skillery Scallery Alligator had come creeping in to nibble his ears. But after a second look, Mr. Longears saw Nannie Wagtail, the goat girl, prancing around the edge of the brush pile.

"No, Nannie," answered the bunny. "I am not making a new bungalow. But if you'll come around tonight I'll make you some roast potatoes!"

"Oh, goodie!" bleated Nannie. Then Sammie and Susie Littletail, the two rabbit children, came out and as soon as they saw the brush pile they gave little squeals of delight, and began running around and beneath it, as well as over it. For you know rabbits are very clever at hiding under brush piles. Wild rabbits like nothing better than to scuttle down in a pile of brush, or a briar patch, for then the wolves and foxes can not so easily catch them.

Though Sammie and Susie were not exactly wild, they knew how to wiggle their way under a brush pile much better than you could have done, and, in fact, better than Nannie Wagtail or any of the other animal children.

"My, how fast they go through the brush!" bleated Nannie, as she saw Susie first on one side and then on the other, while Sammie was just as quick at getting through the brush that Uncle Wiggily had raked into a large mound.

"Yes, they are very speedy and quick," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "When I was a young rabbit I, too, used to wiggle my way under piles of brush. I could go from one side beneath it, to the other side as fast that you could scarcely see me. But, alas, those days are long past!" and the bunny gentleman twinkled his pink nose somewhat sadly.

After a while Sammie and Susie became tired of running beneath the brush and playing tag, and they went to the six and seven cent store with Nannie to buy ice cream cones. Uncle Wiggily continued to rake up the brush until he had a very large pile. He was just going in his bungalow to get ready for the potato roast that evening when, all of a sudden, a harsh voice cried:

"Hold on there! Wait a minute!"

And there was the Fuzzy Fox!

"I s'pose you are wondering what I want?" growled the Fox. "Well, I'll tell you! I am going to nibble your ears!"

"Ha! Not if I know it!" cried Uncle Wiggily as he looked at the brush pile. "If Sammie and Susie could crawl into that pile I can do the same," thought the bunny. "I'll do it!"

No sooner said than done. As the Fox made a jump for Uncle Wiggily the bunny leaped beneath the brush pile, crawled through and came out on the other side.

"Where are you?" cried the angry Fox.

"Over here," answered the bunny. The Fox ran around that side, but Uncle Wiggily just dashed beneath and through the brush again, taking a short cut, so to speak, and he was on the side where he started, while the Fox was away around on the other side. For the Fox could not so easily go through underneath the brush, but had to run around, and this took a long time, for the pile was a large one.

In this way Uncle Wiggily kept the Fox chasing around the pile first to one place then another, until the Fox was so tired out he fell down and could not get up again. So Uncle Wiggily could go safely into his bungalow without getting his ears nibbled.

"I'm glad I didn't forget how to crawl through a brush pile," chuckled the bunny to Nurse Jane. And if the piece of cheese doesn't try to jump through the hole in the doughnut and tangle its legs in the tennis net, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the potato roast.

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

And maybe Stubby did not enjoy his supper of potatoes with lots of gravy on them, enough so he could lick it off! And if there was anything in this world Stubby doted on, it was mashed potatoes with lots of gravy on them. And the chicken bones she gave him! Not only bones, as most people do, thinking a dog can live on bones alone, but bones with lots of meat on them, and dressing besides.

Until time to go to bed, Tom sat on the front porch, which was overrun with Gold of Ophir roses on one side and a kind of deep pink roses on the other. The two rose bushes met above the porch and then climbed to the top of the cottage covering it like a huge, shower bouquet. On this porch he sat, surrounded by all the people in the village, both old and young, the latter lolled on the grass at his feet and listened, with eyes and mouths open, to his recital of the dangers and adventures he had passed through since he started from New York. But the one that made them shiver the worst was when he told of being on the lonesome mountain top with the mighty eagle. He talked until the woman of the house said he must stop, or they would keep him up all night asking questions. They were all very much interested in what he told them of Dick and Harry and Billy and Button. And they wished that the other two boys might stop at their village when they crossed the mountains.

"Do you think they will come this way?" they kept asking him.

As the people bade him good night, they said they would watch the sky for days in hopes of seeing a big white thing that looked like a huge white bird, and another thing that looked like a blue bird, and that if they did see such things they would know his friends were coming.

The bed the women gave him to sleep in proved to be as soft and comfortable as her supper had been delicious, and Tom had the first good restful sleep he had had for nights.

Stubby insisted on sleeping in the chair of the monoplane, and as the night was warm, he preferred sleeping out-doors to in the house. He, too, slept well.

The woman's husband, however, did not sleep a wink, for he sat up all night, unbeknown to Tom, to watch the monoplane for fear something would happen to it. And he felt he could not stand it to have any thing happen to such a wonderful machine, while its owner was his guest.

[To morrow Tom and Stubby fly off again.]

ONE TRICK A NIGHT

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

If you want to amuse yourself, make your friends believe you are extraordinarily gifted, and do a little practising in mental arithmetic, get familiar with the manner of doing the following, and you will never fail to discover the age of a person and the month in which he was born.

First, you ask him to go to the other end of the room, to prevent your seeing what he is going to write. Then you ask him to put down the number of the month in which he was born and multiply it by two, then add 5 to the sum and multiply the latter by 50, add his age to the quotient, then deduct 365, and add 115 to the difference.

Suppose he is 49 years of age, and was born in February, the computation might stand thus:

2 x 2 equals 4, plus 5 equals 9 x 50 equals 450, plus 49 equals 499, minus 365 equals 134, plus 115 equals 249.

The last two figures indicate the age, viz., 49 and the first figure, 2, February, the second month of the year. You simple ask the person to state the result of the calculation and then declare that he was born in February and is 49 years of age.

Sift soda, salt and flour well together; stir in the sour milk, then the beaten yolk of the egg, then the blueberries previously rolled in flour; lastely the beaten white of the egg. Fry on a hot griddle. Eat with or without syrup.

Potato Salad—Boil potatoes in jackets, peel and cool. One quart cold, boiled potatoes, diced, two stalks celery cut in small pieces, one small onion chopped. Hard boiled eggs and cucumber may be added, also a little parsley. Mix with good salad dressing and serve on lettuce.

Bran Muffins—One cup bran, one cup sifted flour, one tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon melted butter or substitute, one egg, one and one-half cups buttermilk, one-half teaspoon soda, two teaspoons baking powder. Put bran, flour, sugar, salt and baking powder into the pan, mix well; add butter and well beaten egg, then buttermilk with soda dissolved in it. Beat three minutes. Put in hot muffin tins and bake twenty-five minutes. Fill your muffin tins only half full.

Baked Ham—Take a ham weighing from seven to nine pounds, place in kettle, cover with cold water in which a half teaspoon soda has been dissolved and let come to a boil. Pour off water, re-cover with fresh and simmer for two hours. Let cool in liquor, remove skin and bake two hours, basting with a cup of cider or vinegar sweetened with sugar. When done take one cup fine rolled bread crumbs moistened with vinegar or cider, two teaspoons brown sugar, one teaspoon dry mustard, stirred to a paste. Stick with cloves and brown.

SUGGESTIONS

—Corn Fritters—These are a favorite garnish for fried chicken or Belgian hare. To a cupful of fresh corn pulp cut from the ear allow a half cup cracker crumbs mixed with a half cup milk. Add two eggs, whites and yolks beaten together, and season with salt and pepper. Have ready a very hot spider or pancake griddle, well greased with butter or olive oil and drop in the batter a spoonful at a time. When the fritters are brown on one side turn to the other, that they may be well cooked through. Four minutes will make them a golden brown.

One lighted gas jet is said to consume as much air as four adults.

Make a paste of sawdust moistened with equal parts of water and lemon juice. Spread the paste on the ivory and let dry. Brush off with a dry brush. A soft cloth dampened and then dipped in salt will clean smooth ivory.

Do not pull down the draperies that are on fire and thus spread the flames. Remove all objects near by and with a wet broom smother the burning pieces as they fall.

"But is he good in criminal cases—before a police court, for instance?" continued Tom.

I believed—I don't know on what grounds—that Manners was good in insurance and admiralty law, and that he looked upon criminal practice as low; but I answered briskly—though a trifle startled—that as a criminal lawyer he was perfect.

"He could advise a man, who had a row hanging on, how to steer clear of being up for murder—eh?"

I trusted, with a desperate attempt at jococity, that neither he nor Fournelli had been doing anything to require Manner's services in that way.

"It would be too late, then," said Tom coolly, "and anybody could tell a man what he ought to have done, or how to make the best of what he had done; but the smart thing in a lawyer would be to give a chap points beforehand, and sorter tell him how far he could go, and yet keep inside the law. How he might goad a fellow to draw on him, and then plug him—eh?"

I looked up quickly. There was nothing in his ordinary, good-humored, but not very strong face to suggest that he himself was the subject of this hypothetical case. If he were speaking for Tournelli, the Italian certainly was not to be congratulated on the ambassador's prudence; and, above all, Manners was to be warned of the interpretation which might be put upon his counsels, and disseminated thus publicly. As I was thinking what to say, he moved away, but suddenly returned again.

"What made you think Tournelli had been up to anything?" he asked sharply.

"Nothing," I answered; "I only thought you and he, being friends"—

"You mean we're both waiters in the same restaurant. Well, I don't know him any better than I know that chap over there," pointing to the other waiter. "He's a Greaser or an Italian, and, I reckon, goes with his kind."

Why had we not thought of this before? Nothing would be more natural tan that the rich and imperious Tournelli should be exclusive, and have no confidences with his enforced associates. And it was evident that Tom had noticed it and was jealous.

"I suppose he's rather a swell, isn't he?" I suggested tentatively.

A faint smile passed over Tom's face. It was partly cynical and partly suggestive of that amused toleration of our wouthful credulity which seemed to be a part of that discomposing patronage that As he said nothing, I continued encouragingly: —

"Because a man's a waiter, it doesn't follow that he's always been one, or always will be."

"No," said Tom abstractedly; "but it's about as good as anything else to lie low and wait on." But here two customers entered, and he turned to them, leaving me in doubt whether to accept this as a verbal pleasantry or an admission. Only one thing seemed plain: I had certainly gained no information, and only added a darker mystery to his conference with Manners, which I determined I should ask Manners to explain.

I finished my meal in solitude. The rain was still beating drearily against the windows with an occasional accession of impulse that seemed like human impatience. Vague figures under dripping umbrellas, that hid their faces as if in premeditated disguise, hurried from the main thoroughfare. A woman in a hooded waterproof like a domino, a Mexican in a black serape, might have been stage conspirators hastening to a rendezvous. The cavernous chill and odor which I had before noted as coming from sarcophagus of larder or oven, where "funeral baked meats" might have been kept in stock, began to oppress me. The hollow and fictitious domesticity of this common board had never before seemed so hopelessly displayed. And Tom, the waiter, his napkin twisted in his hand and his face turned with a sudden dark abstraction towards the window, appeared to be really "lying low," and waiting for something outside his avocation.

CHAPTER 11

The fact that Tom did not happen to be on duty at the next Club dinner gave me an opportunity to repeat his mysterious remark to Manners, and to jokingly warn that rising young lawyer against the indiscretion of vague counsel. Manners, however, only shrugged his shoulders. "I don't know what he meant," he said carelessly; "but since he chooses to talk of his own affairs publicly, I don't mind saying that they are neither very weighty nor very dangerous. It's only the old story: the usual matrimonial infidelities that are mixed up with the Californian emigration. He leaves the regular wife behind,—fairly or unfairly, I can't say. She gets tired waiting, after the usual style, and elopes with somebody else. The Western Penelope isn't built for waiting. But she seems to have converted some of his property into cash when she skipped from St. Louis, and that's where his chief concern comes in. That's what he wanted to see me for; that's why he inveigled me into tat infernal pantry of his one day to show me a plan of his property, as if that was any good."

He paused disgustedly. We all felt, I think, that Tom was some kind of an Imposter, claiming the sympathies of the Club on false pretenses. Nevertheless, the Quartermaster said, "Then you didn't do anything for him—give him any advice, eh?"

The Story of

An Unloved Wife

As Told to Grace Phelps

MELANCHOLY OVERCOMES DORIS

DORIS DRIVEN TO DESPERATE MEANS

I moved toward the sea wall, drawn by that beckoning. It was growing colder and the benches in the little Square and along the Battery wall were deserted for the most part. The derelicts had drifted toward the mission houses and other places where they might take refuge for the night. The policeman who patrolled that beat did not observe me as I slipped under the iron chain that marked the limit of what the city fathers considered safety.

I sat down beside a post where a forgotten ship's rope still clung and let my feet dangle over the water. Just as I felt no hunger so now I felt no cold. All my powers of feeling were concentrated in that one vast ache for the man I loved, the man who did not love me.

I daresay it seems strange that I did not picture Estelle and Alec together, did not conjure up scenes where she put her arms around him and he held her close to him as I would never be held. Perhaps I would not have suffered so, or perhaps I might have suffered more. But whether mercifully or not, the curtain of my imagination was blank.

Alec was with her. He had gone deliberately, with his eyes open. He had even warned me, flaunted the fact after weeks of playing at lovemaking with Estelle. The fact was enough. I had been to blame perhaps, as he had accused me by the tone in which he announced his intentions, but whether it was my fault or not, he was with her now. I might make any inference I pleased. He did not even care.

A fog crept up the river obscuring the dark shapes of the boats. Fog horns blared hoarsely as the fog grew thicker. The lights were veiled now but still their flickering seemed to beckon me. Their message was plain. Under my feet was the way out of my misery. The dull slap of the water against the wall was an echo, a reminder of what the lights were saying. I had only to bend forward just an inch or so, and the ache in my heart would slip down beneath the rippling water and be no more. There would be peace at last. No more sleepless nights, no more tears, no more misery. It was so easy, so very easy and I was very weary.

Footsteps sounded out of the fog and I drew back, clinging startled to the slippery post beside me. I held my breath, scarcely daring to breathe. Was it some miserable person like myself seeking solace and forgetfulness by the quickest route to oblivion? Or was it only the policeman, treading his path of duty, to prevent just that very thing?

The steps receded, muffled in the fog and were gone at last. I sat up straight once more, the dark thoughts flooding in on me again. Why keep on living? There was no hope in it; nothing but more misery ahead. However it had come about, I was marked for unhappiness. Why not end it all? I had few friends. Sarah Ann had her own happiness now with Neel. Billy would be sorry. Dear old Billy! She would never give up. But then, I did not have her strength of character. Ted? Yes, Ted would miss me. But I felt sure, once I was gone, some other girl would soon console him. And Alec? He would be free of the incumbrance he had taken upon himself without the necessity of making the choice.

The lights beckoned once more. I had made up my mind.

Mrs. Thompson's Advice

SAYS MAN DESERTED HER WHEN ILL

Now She Is Recovered Man Asks Forgiveness

DEAR Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-three years old and for the last year have been sick. Up to that time I worked in an office as stenographer and was considered a successful business woman. I was so conscientious that I overworked and had a nervous breakdown. Now I am better and the doctor says I may go back to work at any time if I am more careful of my health and do not work overtime.

At the time I was taken sick I was engaged to be married. My fiance seemed to feel very badly about by condition at first, but when he saw that I did not improve rapidly he stayed away so much that I saw he did not love me, and so I broke our engagement. Probably I hoped he wouldn't let me break it, because the shock of his agreeing that it was best nearly broke my heart.

How I ever got better with my heart nearly breaking is more than I can understand. It must have been because my dear family and the doctor tried so hard and gave me so much encouragement.

The other day I was dressed in a beautiful pink organdie dress my mother made for me, and I suppose, with my blonde hair, I looked rather well. I happened to meet my old sweetheart and when he saw me I could see the old look in his eyes. Now that I am well he wants me back. At least he asked if he could come to see me. In a way I still love him, but I have lost all faith in him because he deserted me when his love would have meant so much. I told him I did not consider it best for him to come.

Now I have received a letter from him, and he begs to come back. He says he has never been happy a minute since our engagement was broken. My brother says he was happy enough to run around with other girls. The whole family resents the way he treated me and say I should not let him come again. I really don't care either way, because he hurt me so much I can never forgive him and feel the same. I have other men friends, but I do not love any of them.

MARTHA.

The man certainly does not deserve your forgiveness. You can see now that he considers himself and not you, and since he has shown this trait in his character before marriage, you may be sure it would manifest in a worse degree after. I believe, too, that it would be better to let him know you are through and do not want him to come back.

GIRLS ARE LONESOME

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls fourteen and fifteen years old. We live on a ranch and are very lonesome. We have a girl friend living in your city who has given us the names and addresses of several boys. We want to know if it is proper for us to write to these boys and carry on a friendly correspondence?

TWO RANCH GIRLS.

I am sorry to disappoint you, but it would not be correct for you to write to the boys. For a few years content yourselves with reading and correspondence with your girl friend. When you are older you can leave the ranch and get work where there is more opportunity to meet people.

GIRL WORRIES

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fourteen years old and am considered good looking. I have gone to several lawn parties this summer with a certain boy and there have been several other boys who have asked to take me home. What should I tell these boys, or what should I have told them?

If you go to a party with your sister or brother and a boy asks to take you home, what should you say? Also after reaching home, what should you say? Should I say I enjoyed being with him and ask him to come again?

Please tell me what I should say when a boy has machine trouble?

BOBBY.

You should have told the boys that some one took you to the party and so you would go home with the same one. But you should have thanked them for asking you.

If you go to a party with your sister or brother, you should return the same way. In case you have gone with your sister, the boy might want to take both of you home. You should merely thank the boy for taking you home and ask him to come to see you sometime.

When a boy his machine trouble it is best to say little. Sympathetic silence is more pleasing than chatter.

BOY SHOULD WAIT

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of nineteen. I have been going with a girl eighteen for two years and we aren engaged. Lately she has been running around with other fellows although I think she loves me. I am afraid that if I don't marry her soon I will lose her, but at present I am out of a job. What would you advise me to do?

PERCY.

I would advise you to wait until you are in a position to support a wife before you think of marriage. Let the girl run around with other young men if she wants to. Surely you do not want her for your wife unless she loves you enough to be faithful even if she meets other men. In case you lose her, it is better to do so before marriage than after. I believe, however, if you give her her freedom and do not show jealousy she will love you more than the rest.

* * *

SHE'S TOO YOUNG

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl going on seventeen. My parents say I am too young to have boy friends and so I would like to have your advice on the subject.

How long should a boy friend stay and how many times should he call during the week.

BOBBY.

You are really young to have callers, but I do not believe it would hurt you any to have company occasionally. When a boy calls, however, he should not stay later than ten o'clock. In case he does not realize it is time to go home, your father should remind him. At your age a caller once or twice a week is often enough.

MILLER FAMILY DUE FOR MORE WEDDING PUBLICITY
CLAIRE ABOUT TO JUMP INTO MATRIMONIAL HARNESS

LOS ANGELES—The echoes of the wedding bells for Marrilynn Miller, now Mrs. Jack Pickford, have scarcely died away and the newlyweds have just about had time to take stock of the publicity derived through the medium of their highly advertised trip to the alter.

Now the Miller family, made famous by Marrilynn's twinkling toes, is due for more publicity.

Maybe it runs in the family but anyway the latest reports have it that Claire Miller, Marrilynn's younger and red-headed sister, is about to jump into the matrimonial harness for the second time.

However, there are one or two minor formalities that must be complied with before her marriage to W. Robert Montgomery, of Boston, can take place.

In the first place she must get a divorce from husband No. 1 from whom she has been separated for nearly a year. It is said that her plans for starting an action in Chicago on her way east.

Montgomery, according to reports, is an elderly banker, considerably younger in ideas than in years, whom Claire met while sojourning in Boston as an understudy to her more illustrious sister, starring in Sally.

One child by her first marriage is now with the husband she plans to divorce, say reports.

Miss Claire has been basking in the limelight considerably of late thanks to her more famous sister, but with the prospects of a divorce coming and a wedding to follow that Claire bids fair to outplay her sister in the headlines of the daily prints.

Miss Claire Miller.

FARNUM IN LUMBER ROMANCE

Dustin Farnum in "Strange Idols" is the attraction at the Parkway today and tomorrow. The story concerns the romance of a wealthy lumberman of the Northwest and a famous dancer in a Broadway cabaret. The way in which this love match is worked out makes a picture of absorbing interest. "Horse Tears" a Century comedy and the latest Pathe Review will also be seen.

Friday and Saturday Bert Lytell and Virginia Valli are coming in their latest picture "The Right That Failed," a story of the boxing ring that has surefire comedy and romance bundled together.

Sunday "In the Name of the Law," a big super-special, opens at the Parkway for a four day's run. It has been called "The picture with a soul" and is a play rich in human interest as well as real melodrama. It took New York by storm a few weeks ago and will have its first Wisconsin showing in Madison Sunday.

Strikes Cause Drop in State Factory Labor

Number Drops 2 Percent; Payroll 9 Per Cent Less in Month

Decrease in the number of factory workers in Wisconsin during the past month is attributed by the industrial commission to the railroad and coal strikes, in a statement today. The number of factory workers fell 2 per cent and the payroll was 9 per cent smaller last month than the month before.

"The decline in number of factory workers and payroll is the only important set back in the gradual improvement in industrial conditions occuring since June, 1921. This decline in payroll is due in some measure to the Fourth of July holiday," the statement said.

The commission found the largest decrease in manufacturing to have occurred in railroad repair shops which show a falling off of 64 per cent, although the payroll declined only 54 per cent, indicating the commission said, that the men who stayed on the job are putting in longer hours.

Other manufacturing industries to show decreases in the number of workers and pig iron and rolling mill products, aluminum and enamel ware, sawmills and planing mills, hosiery and milk products. Several manufacturing industries show important increases in the size of their labor forces.

Among these are panel and veneer mills, 8.5 per cent; sash, door and interior finish, 6.3 per cent; rubber 23.6 per cent; clothing 21.6 per cent, canning 253 per cent.

Outside of manufacturing the following lines of employment continued to show gains: logging, 16.2 per cent; stone crushing and quarrying, 16.5 per cent; building construction, 16.8 per cent and highway construction 6.8 per cent.

TO THE PUBLIC

The Milwaukee Railroad has run its trains since this strike began only through the unceasing efforts of officers and volunteer employes from other departments, who have performed service day and night in the places of some fifteen thousand Mechanical Department employes who struck July First.

The motive prompting such devotion to duty and loyalty to the Public Service on the part of these men is all that has stood between the uninterrupted service you have had and a total demoralization of service in your territory.

Spring Prairie Church Is 75 Years Old Sunday

The Spring Prairie Lutheran congregation, whose church is located in the village of Keyeser, twenty miles north of Madison, will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of its organization next Sunday, August 27.

The congregation was organized by the Rev. J. W. C. Dietrichson in 1847; the first permanent pastor was the Rev. H. A. Preus, who served the congregation from 1851 till 1891. The present pastor is the Rev. C. G. Naeseth, who took charge in September, 1919.

The services will be held in a tent on the church grounds and will begin at 10:30 a. m. Rev. J. W. Preus of Calmer, Ia., and the Rev. L. M. Gimmestad of Orfordville, Wis., former pastors of the church, will preach the sermons at the morning services, the former in Norwegian, the latter in English.

In the afternoon addresses will be made by the Rev. L. S. J. Reque of Galesville, Wis., also a former pastor, in English, and in Norwegian by the Rt. Rev. J. Nordby, president of the eastern district of the church; by the Rev. O. J. H. Preus of De Forest and other neighboring pastors. The musical part of the services will include several anthems by the church choir and a duet by the Rev. O. J. H. Preus and the Rev. C. G. Naeseth. Offerings for the cause of missions will be taken at both services.

All former members and all friends of the church are cordially invited to join with the Spring Prairie congregation in these festival services. Bring your lunch baskets and spend the whole day with us; coffee will be provided.

If Rickey Isn't Miracle Man, He's One of Game's Wizards

CONSIDER the Cardinals!

Here is a team of medium caliber on paper.

With the exception of one rookie pitcher and one of the two first basemen alternating at that sack, the team is no different from last year.

Not one big money purchase or wholesale trade has been engineered to strengthen the club.

Injuries have handicapped many of the regulars at various times all season.

And yet this team has a good chance to nose out the New York Giants and win the National League flag.

Why?

Mainly because of the brilliant strategy, keen brain and general baseball ability of Branch Rickey, manager.

There remain with the Cardinals today only three of the regulars left to Rickey by Miller Huggins when Rickey assumed control in 1917. These three are Pitcher Bill Doak, Outfielder Jack Smith and Infielder Rogers Hornsby.

You say "Well, Hornsby's a whole team," may be, but Huggins had him and failed to produce a startling ball club.

With Hornsby as a nucleus Rickey started in to build a team. He showed his good judgment when he turned down a $200,000 offer for Hornsby the first year he had the club. He turned a larger offer down the next year.

Rickey's team this year is typical of the caliber of men he has molded into good ball clubs.

The outfield: Leslie Mann, Joe Schultz, Jack Smith, Flack and Mueller. Three good gardeners—Mann, Flack and Schultz but none a star.

The infield: Hornsby, Toporcer, Stock, Gainer and Fournier. One brilliant vet in Hornsby. A brilliant youngster in Toporcer, and a good old veteran third sacker in Stock. A weakness at first.

Pitchers: Three reliable but not brilliant hurlers in Doak, Sherdel and Pertica. Three others of variable worth, Haines, Barfoot and North.

Catchers—One veteran past his best days, Ainsmith.

Only one star in the bunch, Hornsby. Only two men who weren't with the Cards last year, Gainer and Barfoot.

But the Cards are up there.

Rickey is the reason.

He hasn't yanked the team from last place to first place over a week-end but he has built a pennant-contending team out a mediocre batch of material. He must be ranked with baseball's wizards.

ROUNDY SAYS:

Let's All Turn Out Next Week And Make the Buddies Feel As If They Were In Their Own Home Town

There are not enough of those signs "Jump in, buddy, and ride with me," on autos as yet for the 32d men. Seeing the event is coming here Madison can get a big ad by taking the boys around the lakes and the university. There should be a rush for those signs at once.

* * *

This is the biggest thing that ever hit Madison. A lot of hard work has been done so far to give them the best that the city possesses. Let's make the boys go home saying that we did everything that could be done for them while here.

* * *

Take a tip from me that this town will be one wild place for two days. Put some pep into the old town. All right, boys; cut loose. Everybody is with you.

* * *

It is up to the girls in this city to greet the boys in a fine, cordial way. There will be dancing around the capitol. Dance with the boys when you see one standing around lonesome. Cut out the high-brow stuff, park the swellness away in moth balls and get a little of that old democratic air for the visitors. Make them feel as if they were in their own home town.

* * *

The Dane county fair is a success. Jack O'Connell and Hank Casserly are picking losers without a miss. If they bet on the horse that comes in last they would make a million dollars. Both men have stiff necks from watching down the track at Monroe last week for their horse to come in.

* * *

I received a letter today on the umpiring at Kipp field last Sunday. The letter said it was the worst that he saw in Madison for the last twenty years. The man suggested that some one start a "summer school" for umpires.

* * *

Chuck Rieder was the umpire. He took the job as the regular umps failed to show up. As an umpire "Chuck" must be awful handy with a coal shovel.

* * *

Ald. Starr, chairman of the group that is working for a new athletic field, stated that it was the finest meeting he ever attended last night in many a year. He can not figure out where so many fine talkers were dug up. He stated the speeches sure gave the thing a wonderful boost and that it proved that we sure must have done some fine work to have such strong arguments as those delivered last night.

* * *

As one fortune teller yells out at the Fair grounds: "Come in and have your fortune read. There are no divorces in heaven. That's what makes it heaven.

* * *

The leaves are falling. So are the White Sox.

* * *

It is a great sight to see John Kelly, Tony Illegan, Jim Longfield, George Wald, the Milward twins, and Cap Grady go around the barns getting inside dope for the next race. And then rush to the track and look for suckers, place their money and see their horse come in about third every time. You ought to see these birds, Roundy, shake their heads and look around at each other. They fall hard. By-hay-stack.

* * *

I sure have been worried for the last week. I knew that Pinkey Mitchell was billed to box Pal Moran in New York this Friday night for 12 rounds and knew if he took that fight he would not be allowed to fight in Wisconsin again without a two weeks' rest.

* * *

But I heard from the Mitchell camp yesterday that Pinkey has cancelled the Moran fight till next month. He has an injured groin from the Jawson fight and it is still black and blue. He left for the country Monday to get a good rest.

* * *

So everything is rosy just now and the rest will put him on fine edge for Tillman. By the way, folks, did you get your tickets yet?

* * *

Joe Lynch, the bantam champ, ran into a right handed long poke Monday night down South against Frankie Murray and kissed the canvas for a "nine count," then gets up and inside of two more rounds had Murray stretched out full length on the canvas for a ten count dead to the world.

* * *

Do not forget, South Madison fans, that your battler Monohan is taking on a rough customer on the 32d card. He saw lots of softer meets than this bird he meets from Freeport. This fight should be worth the money alone.

Tough Man

Gunderson Claimed To Be Better Man Than Schober

Next Monday night in Turner hall Jimmy Demetral is scheduled to meet one of the toughest little mat men that has come to light in many a moon. He is Ole Gunderson, a protege of Billy Schober, who found the Madison Greek invincible and has brought this man here to avenge two defeats.

Demetral expects to arrange a match with Johnny Meyers, champion, for Madison about Sept. 24, and one condition is that he meet all challengers up to that time. Schober could not beat Demetral, but he says that he is bringing a man here that will.

King Watts Victor Of 2:08 Classic

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. — Four heats were required to decide the Knickerbocker 2:08 class trot, purse $2,000 at the opening of the four day meeting of the Grand Circuit at the Hudson River driving park on Tuesday. King Watts, driven by A. McDonald, won the event by taking the last heats after the first had gone to The Great Volo, piloted by Walter Cox, and the second to Legal J., piloted by Warman.

Bush Halted When Yanks Stopped, 6-2

Uhle Hurls Good Ball For Indians; Two Yanks To First

NEW YORK—Joe Bush's winning streak of nine straight games was broken here on Tuesday, Cleveland defeating the New York Yankees in the first game of the series, 6 to 2. It was Bush's fifth defeat in twenty-five games. The feat decreased New York's lead in the American league to a half game.

Uhle pitched a remarkable game for the visitors, holding New York to two hits. After the first inning only two Yankees reached first, both on base on balls. The work of the veteran Larry Gardner figured largely in Cleveland's scoring. He hit a double and two singles and drew a base on balls, stole two bases, drove in three runs and scored a fourth.

REDS LOSE.

CINCINNATI—The Giants increased their lead in the National league race on Tuesday to four full games by beating the Reds, 7 to 3, while the Cardinals were lying idle. Couch was hit hard and lasted less than three innings, while a muffed fly by Duncan in the first inning proved costly. A one hand catch by Stengel of Roush's hot liner in the second inning was a leading feature, saving at least two runs.

TRIM PHILS

PITTSBURG—Timely hitting aided by the visitors' slow fielding, gave Pittsburg a 4 to 3 victory over Philadelphia on Tuesday. Morrison came home with the winning run in the sixth.

SISLER STARS

BOSTON—St. Louis pounded Pennock for sixteen hits and the Red Sox made four errors, the result being a 9 to 4 victory for the visitors.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Chicago and Washington divided a double header on Tuesday. The Griffmen winning the first, 4 to 2, while the second was an easy victory for the White Sox, 3 to 0.

DODGERS COP

CHICAGO — Brooklyn defeated Chicago, 5 to 4, in the first game of the series here. The locals took the lead but the visitors drove Aldridge off the mound in the first and went in front.

TIGS WIN TWO

PHILADELPHIA — Detroit won both ends of a double header from Philadelphia on Tuesday, 6 to 4 and 17 to 3.

Union Giants Play McCoy-Nolans Today

PLATTEVILLE — Gilkerson's Union Giants ball team won a double header over Oelwein, Ia., and Platteville, the first game ending 7 to 4 and the second, 6 to 5. The Giants play the McCoy-Nolans at Lone Rock today and the same teams will clash a second time at Argyle next Sunday.

Only Two Big Lumber Firms Run Full Time

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—The Von Paten-Fox Lumber Co. of this city and the J. W. Wells Lumber Co. are the only upper peninsula concerns conducting logging operations at present. It is hard to keep full crews because of the hot weather and insects. Another reason is the shortage of coal for locomotives in hauling the loaded logs. The Ford mill here was forced to close recently because of lack of logs. The Morgan Lumber Co. at Foster City, in this county, suspended operations for the same reason.

Steps Heat in 2:15; Track Slows Horses

Riser Patchen, Stoughton, Wins 2:25 Trot In 2:12½

A slow track, small purses, and a smaller crowd of racing fans in the big grandstands, gave but little stimulus to the first day's horse racing at the Dane County fair. With the opening of the second day's races and with purses doubled and crowds of racing fans from all over the county and state packing the grand stands, greater speed, competition and race track excitement is expected.

There was little betting at the races yesterday. A few independent gamblers with small money stood about the track, but no one seemed willing to lay any big stakes.

WIZARD PERFECTS MACHINE TO TAKE POWER FROM AIR

Home Town Stuff

Jack Boyd is selling his seats for the 32nd fight like a high pressure salesman getting rid of oil stock. The opening day of the convention Jack is going to sell tickets to the men as they register in the capitol. The home town boys that are looking toward attending this fight had better get busy.

* * *

Jack has had quite a little bit of trouble in arranging this fight. Mitchell had to post a $250 forfeit and Hainricks, the man who was originally to fight him, was to have posted one under a $100. Along comes Billy Mitchell, manager of the Mitchell stable and demands that this Tillman post an amount equal to that of Pinky. The St. Paul boys are somewhat riled.

* * *

This fight ought to be good for one reason—the St. Paul boys and the Milwaukee boys hate one another. The rivalry between the two cities is an old one.

* * *

The O'Connell and Meyers Ball team of this city defeated the Springfield Corners nine, 9—5 Sunday. The Clothiers, with Sime hurling, allowed but four hits all game. Adler featured the game with a homer in the sixth. Next thing we know the Association of Commerce will be sending out a ball team with Don Mowry on the mound. Every business house in Madison has a ball team named after them.

* * *

Sun Prairie has agreed to play a series of three games with Middleton to settle a tie game which resulted between the two organizations sometime ago. According to a letter from A. C. Hein, Sun Prairie manager, the first game will be played on Aug 27 at Sun Prairie, the second Sept. 3 at Middleton, and if a third is necessary it will be played on a neutral field at a later date. Both teams are to use their regular lineups.

Gene Sarazen Was No Accidental Golf Champ

HAIL, Gene of the Sarazens! The swarthy little golfer proved himself no accidental champion when he defeated Emmett French of Youngstown at Oakmont in the final of the Professional Golfers Association championship. Thus demonstrating himself a master at the two styles of play—medal and match.

Sarazen at the age of 21 holds the two major titles of country for which professionals may compete. He is a sound golfer in every detail of the game. To become that he took the hardest but the only successful route in the game—constant and consistent practice. Gene spent more hours on the practice tee than the average player does on the course. He worked on every shot until he had it mastered. Behind that he is endowed with a splendidly muscled back and a sturdy pair of legs that precludes fatigue, another enemy to the player.

Gene should long be a power in American golf. His titles and the accompanying adultation have not turned his head. He is going right back to work, teaching the people who employed him when he only was Gene Sarazen, "a good young golfer." His triumps undoubtedly will lead him to a better position but at present he is doing the work at hand.

"It Costs No More to Buy a Kelly"

Ever since its inception (over a quarter of a century ago) the aim of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. has been to build the best tires possible regardless of price. That is still their aim. Kellys are better now than ever before, yet they cost no more than other tires that have always sold for less than Kellys because economies effected by quantity production have made possible a drastic reduction in prices.

News of the Markets

Report for August 23, 1922

Wheat Trading Is Light; Sales Check Prices

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Trading in wheat was not large at the start today, local traders being inclined to await leadership on either side. The market ran into selling orders soon after the opening and checked the early advance. Support came from commission houses on minor breaks. Receipts were estimated at 806,000 bushels. The opening which was at unchanged figures to ¼c higher, with Sept. 1.02½ to 1.02⅜ and Dec. 1.03⅜ to 1.03⅞ was followed by a slight sag all around.

Short covering was responsible for the bulge in wheat values to the high point but toward the finish some reinstating of short lines was in evidence with a lack of outside help and the market eased off, with the finish unchanged to ¼c higher, with Sept. 1.02⅝ to 1.02¾, and Dec. 1.03¾ to 1.03⅞.

CORN — Rains in parts of Nebraska, Illinois and Indiana made corn easier at the start, but the market rallied quickly on reports of higher temperatures in Kansas. The opening which varied from ⅛ to ⅝c lower, with September 60 cents, was followed by a slight advance all around then somewhat of a set-back.

Country offerings of corn were only fair with the car situation the main influence in checking business. The finish ranged from ⅛ to ⅞ cents higher, with Sept. 60⅞ to 61 cents.

OATS— Oats started unchanged to ¼c lower, with Sept. 31½ to 31⅝c, and held close to the initial range.

Stock Market Drops As Rail Parley Falters

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Failure of the anthracite coal strike negotiations, combined with pessimistic reports concerning the outcome of today's rail strike negotiations, imparted a decidedly reactionery trend to opening prices today on the New York stock exchange. Selling pressure was directed chiefly against active rails, shippings and steels. Losses of a point were sustained by St. Paul, Lehigh Valley and Union Pacific, with slightly smaller declines taking place in St. Paul preferred, New Haven, New York Central, Reading, Illinois Central and Southern Railway Pfd. The 20 per cent wage increase announced by the steel corporation and a few independents had an unsettling influence, Republic dropping a point and C. S. common and Crucible yielding fractionally. Marine Pfd. sold off 2½ points to its lowest price of the year. The few strong spots included Mexican Petroleum, up 3, Wstern Union up 1⅜, Chicago Pneumatic Tool 1 to a new high, and Standard Milling 2¼.

Speculative operations on the selling side resulted in a confused movement of prices in the final hour. There was a good demand, however, for some of the equipments, oils, tobaccos and high priced rails. The closing was irregular.

Sales approximated 925,000 shares.

(By the Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—Fred Oesterreich, garment manufacturer, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis., was shot and killed in his home here last night, presumably by burglars.

He and his wife had returned to their residence after visiting friends. Mrs. Oesterreich went upstairs, turned on the lights in her bedroom and stepped toward a closet. Immediately she was seized and thrust into the closet and the door locked. She thought her husband was playing a joke, and she called out, "quit your fooling."

There was no response, and the next she heard was three shots down stairs. Neighbors rushed into the house and found Oesterreich dead with one bullet wound in his temple and two in his breast.

We Will Answer Wausau And Wisconsin Rapids, Too

THE CAPITAL TIMES, apparently, has stirred up a hornet's nest among the newspapers of Wisconsin as a result of its charges that newspapers in this state are not free to tell the truth. The Capital Times is just now being lambasted enthusiastically from all sides by state newspapers that seem to be squirming as a result of these charges.

Among these newspapers are the Wausau Record-Herald, and the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune. The Wausau Record-Herald, the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune and the Merrill Daily Herald are the three daily newspapers in the Wisconsin river valley. That being the case, we have decided to extend the scope of our remarks at the massmeeting to be held at Merrill Friday night to include, not only the Merrill Daily Herald, but the Wausau Record-Herald and the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune as well.

The Wausau Record-Herald has the following to say concerning The Capital Times:

> Our editorial brethren and neighbors shouldn't take what The Capital Times has to say too seriously. It may be a journal of general circulation but that circulation is not very extensive and such as it is would not exist at all if there were not a certain number of people in every community who have an ineradicable belief that all the papers who print the facts and tell the truth are under the control of "capital" in one way or other.
>
> If it were not for this class of people, there wouldn't be any Capital Times. The Capital Times is a special organ issued for a special class of people. These are organs issued for stamp collectors, for geologists, for teachers, for the blind, for all sorts of classes and groups of people, large and small. The Capital Times is issued for a certain group of mentally blind, people who want the truth distorted, twisted, bent, seasoned and colored to suit the prejudices which they already have.
>
> Since there are such people there doesn't seem to be any good reason why they haven't as much right to a special organ conducted to suit them as any other group has. The Times is strictly a group paper, a sort of trade-journal. It is supported by people who have certain peculiar ideas and peculiar interests and only now and then drifts into the hands of others.
>
> What else can such a paper do from time to time than assert that the general run of papers are controlled by capitalists, big business, corporations and so forth? That is the one object for which the paper exists. It is foolish to take exception to such a statement in such a paper. If it isn't allowed to make such statements it would have no reason for being whatever. Take that privilege away and you take away everything.
>
> And in consequence it is absolutely certain that no mountain of the most substantial evidence than can be piled up will ever cause the Times to admit it is in error on this point. To admit it is in error would be a kind of suicide and self preservation is the first law of life and one which is by no means disregarded by the Times.

Well, we think that we will be able to show that the Wausau Record-Herald is also dominated by a class. We are going to tell at Merrill Friday night something about the class that controls the Wausau Record-Herald and to whom Mr. Sturtevant, the editor, looks for his cue.

The Wisconsin Rapids Tribune has the following editorial:

> A friend of Gov. Blaine, a Madison editor, has charged the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune with being the mouthpiece of the paper mill interests. This charge is an unqualified falsehood, is positively denied by the Tribune and we challenge that it be proven. Any attempt to involve the Tribune in the discussion between the Nekoosa-Edwards Co. and the Governor over the charges will not deter the Tribune from publishing the facts in connection with this affair. The Tribune regards as a matter of news to all readers, whether supporters or non-supporters of Mr. Blaine, just what transpires in this controversy. Mr. Alexander's denial is just as much news as Mr. Blaine's charges and Mr. Jasperons' request for an explanation is just as much news as Mr. Blaine's proof of the charges. The Tribune will be pleased to publish Mr. Blaine's proof of his charges, and his full statement of facts exactly as he writes them, if he will reply.

We shall also answer the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune in our Merrill speech as to whether or not The Tribune is the mouthpiece of the paper mill interests.

Our attention has indirectly been called to the following challenge which appeared in the Ladysmith News-Budget of August 18, 1922:

> CALLING A BLUFF
>
> "The Capital Times will contribute $100 to any charity designated, in any city or village where there is a member of the Wisconsin Press Association, and where The Capital Times cannot establish the fact that the newspaper or newspapers in that village or city is affected by the pressure of organized wealth."
>
> If The Capital Times is correctly quoted in the above paragraph which is attributed to it by one of our exchanges (this paper does not receive The Capital Times), the Ladysmith News-Budget hereby calls upon The Capital Times to establish the fact that the News-Budget is "affected by the pressure of organized wealth" or pay to the Service Star Legion of this city the sum of $100.
>
> The News-Budget courts the fullest investigation and will place all its records, bank books and files at the disposal, except as to removal from Ladysmith, to the representative of The Capital Times, will concede them the judging of all conditions, even to the final decision. If the Ladysmith News-Budget is bought up or subservient to organized wealth or predatory interests of any kind it wants to be shown up.
>
> This libel on the weekly newspapers of Wisconsin has been rather bandied about by politicians of a certain stripe this summer and it is time the lie was nailed or the truth of the imputation established.

It is all fired hot these days, but, gosh all hemlock, we suppose we will have to go to Ladysmith, too.

State Press

We are an independent newspaper and not given to taking sides on political issues and candidates. We feel perfectly free, however, to state that we believe that O. R. Olson of this village, our present state senator, should be and will be renominated and re-elected to that position and in this we believe we reflect the opinion of the masses of the people of this district. His long years of practical experience as a farmer places him in a position of advantage in dealing with legislation affecting agriculture and dairying, which are the large interests of the people of this district, and his many years of practical training in business is an added qualification. By reason of his experience and training he was placed on the most important committees of the senate and his work and record has often received very favorable comments from the agricultural papers of the state. When we take into consideration the fact that one of his opponents is a young man just out of school who is not engaged in any business, trade or profession, not even a tax-payer, and that his other opponent is a city music dealer and piano agent there is not much room for doubt about the action of the electors on primary day and that Senator Olson will be renominated by an overwhelming majority.—Blanchardville Blade.

LA FOLLETTE

Labor is solidly behind Robert M. La Follette in his campaign for re-election to the senate. Mr. La Follette is entitled to labor's support. He is entitled to the support of all classes of workers, organized or otherwise.

If he is defeated, the common people of the country will lose one of their strongest supporters. They will lose a voice in the senate that is invariably and unalterably opposed to special privilege, to selfish interests and to crooked business. They will lose a representative who is always to be found defending the interests of the little men. They will lose one of the few men in the United States Senate who is captain of his own conduct and commander of his own acts.

The Journal did not and does not agree with many of Mr. La Follette's views on foreign affairs. It did not agree with his attitude in the war. But his championship of the interests of the common people of the country, his opposition to legislation proposed and initiated in behalf of entrenched privilege, his courage and capacity in defending his own beliefs, and his record in proposing and defending progressive legislation stamp him as the kind of man the people should keep in the senate of the United States.—Oregon (Portland) Daily Journal.

WHY HUSBANDS LEAVE HOME

Have I got to look for that collar button every morning? I left it right here last night.

What's the idea of burning the bacon to cinders? When I want charcoal tablets I'll go to the drug store.

Say, didn't I telephone you from the office to be sure and have dinner on time tonight? Yes, I know this ain't a restaurant, and I know, too, that I left a perfectly good boarding house when I married you.

Take your time, don't hurry! It's only eight-thirty and the show don't begin till eight-fifteen. We can make it in fifty minutes, and the tickets are only eight dollars apiece.

Lloyd George's book, Mrs. Asquith's book and the ex-kaiser's memoirs will make good light reading for next summer's vacation.

Mr. Bryan has had his hair cut short. He didn't like it when they began to call him the "Chautauqua flapper."

LYNCHING RECORD FOR SIX MONTHS 1922

IN the first six months of 1922 there were 30 lynchings. This is 6 less than the number, 36, for the first six months of 1921, and 18 more than the number, 12, for the first six months of 1920. Of the 30 persons put to death, 19, or 63 per cent, were in two states, Mississippi (7), and Texas (12).

Of those lynched, 2 were whites and 28 were Negroes. Eleven of those put to death were charged with criminal assault and nineteen were charged with other offenses. Five of those put to death were burned at the stake and 3 were first put to death and then their bodies were burned. Four of those lynched in the year 1921 were burned at the stake and three were first put to death and then their bodies were burned.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama, 1; Arkansas, 2; Florida, 1; Georgia, 4; Louisiana, 1; Mississippi, 7; South Carolina, 1; Oklahoma, 1; and Texas, 12.

BILL'S IDEAS

Bill thought the world would be all right if all the men were Bills,
If all would till their patch of ground the way he daily tills;
If Jim and Joe and Jack and George would only change their ways
The troubles of the world would end and peace would rule our days.

Bill used to talk by night and day about the wrongs he saw.
To curb his neighbor's greed for gain there ought to be a law.
There ought to be a law to stop the man across the street
From charging money for his hay, and money for his wheat.

The troubles of the world are great, the government is lame,
Here sin and misery abound and someone is to blame;
If men in power, and men with wealth, and men of high degree,
Would change their ways and be like Bill, a happy world 'twould be.

Bill's garden wasn't much to see; in fact, the ground was bare
And running wild with ugly weeds he never knew was there;
And when Bill had a thing to sell, though greed's a dreadful vice,
Bill wanted all that he could get and asked a fancy price.

Bill could have helped the world a bit by cleaning up his yard,
He could have won with little toil his neighbor's high regard;
But Bill was satisfied with Bill, and so he spent his days
Insisting that his neighbors should be forced to change their ways.

WHAT NATION'S LEADERS THINK OF LA FOLLETTE

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE CAPITAL TIMES
WASHINGTON, D. C.

"Robert M. La Follette is in my opinion the greatest living American statesman."

This is the view expressed by Frank P. Walsh, former joint chairman of the War Labor Board with Chief Justice Taft, former chairman of the Industrial Relations Commission appointed by President Wilson in 1913, and one of the leading lawyers and publicists in the United States.

Mr. Walsh is now abroad, but dispatched his statement of his opinion of Senator La Follette's present position in the United States Senate.

"I would rather have the great force of Senator La Follette behind any measure in which I was interested than that of any other man in Congress," Mr. Walsh writes.

Until recently Mr. Walsh was a resident of Kansas City, where he won the reputation of being one of the greatest lawyers in the country. He conducted an investigation of the Steel Trust, the Mining industry, the Standard Oil Trust and other great monopolies and trusts as chairman of the Industrial Relations Commission, and wrote the report of that Commission in 1915 which retains its rank as one of the most exhaustive economic studies in recent years.

During the war Mr. Walsh was joint chairman of the War Labor Board, which prevented war-time strikes by adjusting difficulties between labor and employers in the great industries of the country. Mr. Walsh is probably the most prominent Irish leader in the United States. His statement follows:

By FRANK P. WALSH

"Robert M. La Follette is in my opinion the GREATEST LIVING AMERICAN STATESMAN.

"This judgment is based not only on his splendid abilities and the great fundamental principles for which he stands, but also on his ACHIEVEMENTS in the interest of the people.

'I would rather have the great force of Senator La Follette behind any measure in which I was interested than that of any other man in Congress.

"I say this not only because he is one of the few men in the Senate who can be ABSOLUTELY TRUSTED, but also because he is today the OUTSTANDING FIGURE in that great deliberative body.

"When it was my duty as counsel representing the interests of the Irish Republic in the United States to secure, if possible, the passage of a resolution declaring for recognition of Irish Independence, I went first to Senator La Follette and asked his assistance.

"There were then in the Senate half a dozen men of Irish blood who would have felt it a great honor to perform this service for the land of their fathers. There were other Senators who, realizing how strongly this resolution would be supported by the millions of voters of Irish sympathies and how deeply such action would be appreciated by them, would have been glad to have had it bear their names.

"But I went to Senator La Follette because I was convinced that if HE would agree to urge the passage of this historic resolution it would be adopted if this were humanly possible.

"I found to my great surprise that he had a profounder knowledge and a clearer grasp of Ireland's great struggle for freedom than many Irish leaders who had learned the story at their mother's knee and devoted their lives to its study.

"Senator La Follette's speech urging the passage of this resolution was a masterpiece. When I was in Ireland during the summer of 1920 I found that it was known and quoted, not only by the Irish leaders, but by Irish farmers and laborers from Cork to Derry. Henry W. Nevinson, the great war correspondent, told me that it was the most convincing argument ever made for Irish freedom. In Ireland La Follette is known as America's greatest orator and statesman.

"So ably did Senator La Follette manage the situation in the Senate, and so strongly was the resolution supported not only by citizens of Irish blood but also by thousands of petitions from other individuals and organizations, that there is no question that it would have been adopted except for the opening of the peace negotiations between England and Ireland.

"I have spoken of this situation in some detail because it is close to my heart and was of vital interest to millions of Americans. But I know also from my own observation that on all legislation affecting labor, farmers, the protection of women and children, railroads, taxation and other great measures that concern ALL the people, the influence of Robert M. La Follette is GREATER than that of any other individual Senator in either the Democratic or Republican party.

Voice of the People

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IN CALIFORNIA

[To the Editor]—The Anti-Saloon League is running true to form in California also. Just now it is in a terrible mess there because the reactionary candidate whom they endorsed for United States Senator against Hiram Johnson has come out for wine and beer. Can you beat it? Hiram Johnson is dry, and one of the ablest senators at Washington, but being progressive the league couldn't stand for him and has endorsed a "wet." Two years ago the league also elected a "wet" senator from the same state by opposing William Kent, a bone dry progressive. That the writer need not ask his own word to be taken for this, the following is taken from the Christian Science Monitor of August 14:

"The situation today parallels almost exactly the situation of 1920, when, due to the laxity and inefficiency of the campaign conducted by the Anti-Saloon League, the Harris Act, a much stronger, better and more efficient enforcement act, was defeated, and a safe dry majority in the legislature converted into a dry minority, to the amazement of the law-abiding people of the entire state. A. H. Briggs, then superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, conducted the campaign supposedly in support of the Harris Act and apparently in favor of the dry candidates for places in the state legislature.

"Another parallel between the 1922 campaign and that of 1920 is to be found in the contest for senatorship. In 1920, there were two Republican candidates for the senatorship subject to the primaries, Samuel Shortridge (wet) and William Kent (dry), and one Democratic candidate, James D. Phelan (wet). Mr. Kent had the general support of the prohibition element of the State, and would have been elected, when the Anti-Saloon League suddenly announced A. J. Wallace, president of the league, as its candidate for the senatorship. This so divided the dry vote that Shortridge was nominated and elected. That is to say, the action of the Anti-Saloon League in injecting Mr. Wallace into a campaign already virtually won for the dry candidate, made it impossible without reference to party, for anyone except a wet candidate, either Democratic or Republican—to be elected.

"This year, in the senatorial campaign, the Anti-Saloon League, after declaring that it would support Charles C. Moore, as against Hiram Johnson (incumbent), whom Dr. Briggs declared to be "not dependably dry," now has repudiated Mr. Moore, leaving the anti-liquor forces without a candidate for the United States Senate.

"When Dr. Briggs, some three weeks ago, stated to the writer that the Anti-Saloon League would support Mr. Moore, that was commonly supposed to be the end of the doubt in the minds of prohibitionists as to which candidate would receive the league's influence. Apparently, however, there was not a complete understanding between Dr. Briggs and Mr. Moore, since the latter, shortly after Dr. Briggs made this announcement, took a stand, according to Dr. Briggs, for wine and beer."

SOLDIERS FOR LA FOLLETTE

[To the Editor]—As an ex-service man I would like to register a kick. I have listened to quite a few of the political speeches in this campaign, and have become disgusted with the method used by the "Forty-four" candidates to corrall votes. While La Follette points with pride, and justly so his record on soldier legislation, the opposition sets up a cry about La Follette's terrible war record and then weeps for the poor soldiers who have been so terribly wronged by the senator.

In all of their speeches they seek to give the impression that the service men are against La Follitte. They must take us for an ungrateful bunch of fools. They say that anyone who is a friend of Bob La Follette is a pro-German and dangerous radical. If such is the case, I'm proud to be placed in that class. I will admit that I was rather in close touch with the German army during the late war; in fact, I have a couple of scars to show for it. Most of the service men of this state are in the same class. I know because I have done some canvassing among them.

I was a member of the Thirty-second division, and was wounded and gassed at the Vesle river. I have been attending Whitewater Normal for two years. There are about one hundred ex-service men in school from all over the state. To satisfy my own curiosity I took a census of these men to see how they stood on the La Follette question. Out of ninety men to whom I talked I found that about a half dozen were undecided. I found two fellows who were against La Follette, but they could give no real reasons. The other eighty-two were for La Follette. It must be remembered that these men are all fellows who have seen real active service at the front. About forty of them are cripples who will always bear the scars of war.

The men who fought this war are not easily fooled by the lies of the opposition. They know that Senator La Follette has always been their friend, both during and after the war, and a soldier does not desert his friends as easily as some people would lead you to believe.

I have traveled over the state a little during the last month, and talked to other service men. I have found the same sentiment existing everywhere; so it is not a local condition.

I think it is time that the people of this state awoke to the fact that they are being fooled by a few people, and decide to investigate for themselves. The best place to look for the real facts is in the Congressional Record. There you will find La Follette vindicated on his war record. I know, because I have read it.—Stuart P. Tice, Whitewater, Wis.

THE SENTINEL'S CRITICISM

[To the Editor]—In following up the editorials in the stalwart paper, The Milwaukee Sentinel, for the mere purpose of seeing what the editor of that paper informs the paper's readers, I have discovered that an editor certainly can make his paper appear to be very, very foolish. The only thing that the honorable editor has informed his readers within the last few weeks is the fact that Senator La Follette was absent from the Senate meetings very frequently, especially during the session of 1918. Of course he will not tell them the circumstances that kept the Senator from the Senate chamber, although he is very much aware of the facts that confronted La Follette because of his son's illness, for the Sentinel had an article in its paper in the fall of 1918 relating to Bob La Follette, Jr.'s illness.

It seems that the Sentinel can find so little against Mr. La Follette that they must harp on one meager, unfundamental point for weeks. —A. E. E., Madison, Wis.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT ON REED

[To the Editor]—A striking illustration of the unanimity of newspaper opinion originating in New York and spreading out over the country is the newspaper comment on the re-nomination of Senator Reed, in the recent Missouri primary election. As reported by The Literary Digest, The New York Times (Democratic) says the "fight was between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Reed," the New York Tribune (Republican) says that Reed's triumph was "a crushing blow to Wilson." Thus the comment runs through the Philadalphia Public Ledger, Washington Times down to the Missouri country dailies.

Candid and intelligent political observers can readily discern how Senator Reed won his re-nomination. Senator Reed voted against the league of nations, and he was re-nominated. Harding carried Missouri, a normal Democratic state, by 150,000 on the same issue.

But the international bankers who still hope to get the United States into some kind of European pact or league, so they can collect the debt owed by the ex-czar, they will not admit that the league of nations had anything to do with Reed's victory. The international bankers own or control the New York newspapers and these "know their master's voice." These same international bankers control more or less effectively the big newspapers of the west. Through these they reach the small dailies scattered through the comparatively small towns in Wisconsin as well as through the country at large.—A Reader.

LIKES THE PAPER

[To the Editor]—Inclosed please find check for $4, to extend my time on your valued paper. I am sorry to have let this overrun so long, but we farmers, as you know, don't see very many dollars, sometimes for months at a stretch.

You certainly may count on us to pull with you. We think yours is the only paper that dares to stand for the right as against might and wrong. We cannot say too much for the way you are championing the cause of the masses. Wisconsin needs more like you. Here is wishing you still more success and hoping that this fall's election will show the greatest victory ever for La Follette, Blaine and our whole progressive cause.—A. A. Berget, So. Wayne, Wis.

On the Side

A SLICE O' WRITING

I sent a story to an editor.
He returned it. "All wrong."
I sent it to another.
"Very fine, but wrong style."
I sent it to another.
"Good, but not good enough."
I sent it to another
"Excellent, but an old subject."
I sent it to another.
"Style bad, subject hackneyed."
I waited two months, then
I changed the title and
I sent it to the first editor.
"Very fine," he said,
And accepted it, and so
It never pays in this business

"I do not need to be introduced to this gentleman," observed the millionaire, patronizingly. "I met him long ago; in fact, I gave him a start in life. In fact, I was his first client."

The noisy hilarity which greeted the announcement was never explained to the late comer.—London Telegraph.
